Failure Of Hoover To Extend Secret Files Holds Up Ratification Work

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The Senate ended one week's debate on the London naval treaty today with ratification of the pact no nearer than when President Hoover issued his call for the special session. Debate will not be resumed until Monday.

An impasse, developing between the president and the Senate over secret state department documents relating to negotiation of the treaty, only made the task of ratification more difficult. This dispute, in which the president refused to turn the documents over to the Senate, provoked a proposed reservation, behind which all foes to the treaty rallied.

No Secret Files
The reservation, drafted by Senator Norris (R) of Neb., proposed that "in ratifying this treaty, the Senate does so with the distinct and explicit understanding that there are no secret files, documents, getters, understandings or agreements which in any way, directly or indirectly, modify change, add to or take away from any of the stipulations, agreements or statements in the said treaty; and that the Senate ratifies said treaty with the understanding that there is no agreement, secret or other."

Wheeling, W. Va., apparently is the latest convert to night baseball. But they're also installing something else besides floodlights—a public address system over which all close and thrilling plays of the game will be given to the fans verbally as they happen on the field. The management feels it will benefit the spectators, as many will not know the players well enough to know who executes thrilling plays. Not a bad idea!

Post office officials here announce that 5,517 pounds of mail were transported over the Pittsburgh-Cleveland air route during June.

Pa. News saw many picnickers this morning getting ready for the B. O. outing which is being held today at Chippewa Lake.

A farmer coming into New Castle last night from Shenango township told Pa. News that he hadn't seen any weeds until he got into the city. "But, you should see Paul street," he added.

While many are hoping for rain at once, farmers will be just as content if the rain holds off for a short time longer. Hay harvest is being completed, and wheat cutting is now under way in the county.

Come to think of it, there are a large number of good swimmers' holes in New Castle and vicinity. Offhand, Pa. News thinks of McConnell's Mills, the Harbor, Kennedy's Mills, Nashua, Flat Rock, Cascade Park, Ne-Ca-Hi Beach, Lakewood, Rock Springs and any number of smaller places. Most all of the holes are being used, too.

Mrs. Dague Says She Did Not Seek School

While the story originating in Moundsville, W. Va., concerning the failure of the Sandy Hill district to re-elect Mrs. Theresa Dague, wife of Glenn Dague, for the coming year is true, it is not because the board did not want her back, according to Mrs. Dague's statement.

"It is true that I am not going to teach next year," said Mrs. Dague, "but the school board knew that weeks ago. I decided before the end of the last school term that I would not teach the coming year and have made arrangements to go into another line of work."

"I have felt that it would be best for myself and for the school in which I taught if I did not teach next term. Naturally the occurrences of the past few months have been anything but conducive to steady nerves, and it may be possible that the coming six months may see conditions arise which could not help but unsteady me if I were teaching school."

"I do not understand the statement that I was refused a place next year as I did not apply for re-election as a teacher and the board members knew of my decision."

AUDREY BAKER SEEKS DIVORCE FROM SHERRY

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, July 12.—Counsel for Audrey Baker Sherry, showgirl and formerly of New Castle, Pa., today had on file summons and complaint in an action to annul her marriage to Ernest Sherry.

Audrey took the place of her sister Nedra, a clothing model, last January 22 when the sister could not get off work and married Sherry by proxy.

Shortly after the wedding Nedra and Sherry left for a wedding trip to Montreal, the papers state. A week ago parents of Sherry began proceedings to annul the marriage of their son to the actress.

Despite the New York reports of the proxy marriage, parents of the Baker girl, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Baker, of this city, denied the facts given and said that while Audrey did accompany Sherry to secure the license, Nedra was the daughter that was married and declared that there was no honeymoon trip following the wedding.

OLD ORCHARD BEACH, Me., July 12.—A non-stop flight by airplane from this beach to Buenos Aires next month was being planned today by Captain Herbert Partridge, of Belfast, world war aviator, whose recent projected flight to South America from Hartford, Conn., in the airplane of New Haven was abandoned.

The aviator said he had received already eighty percent of his financial backing.

Conference Week Starting At Camp

Over Eighty Delegates Of Queen Esther Classes Gathering At Camp East Brook

DELEGATES FROM OVER DOZEN CITIES

A week of conference will be formally started this afternoon at Camp East Brook with the arrival of over 80 young women who are delegates of Queen Esther classes of churches in all western Pennsylvania. Perhaps never since Camp East Brook was instituted has such a large crowd been at the camp for the entire week. Councilors have made provisions for the delegates and indications are that this will be the most successful conference and the most enjoyable one ever held.

Young women from Erie, Warren, Oil City, East Brook, Grove City, Titusville, DuBois, Sharon, Falls Creek, Summerville and Greenville will join the New Castle delegates in the missionary conference. The majority will arrive this afternoon, evening and Sunday morning.

Classes will be in session every morning with trained teachers in charge. Mrs. Cora Downes Stevens

Briefs To Be Filed Before Court Acts On New Trial Appeals

EXACT TIME FOR DECISION UNKNOWN

Friday Afternoon Court Session Taken Up With Dague's Case

No decision in the argument for new trials for Irene Schroeder or Glenn Dague will be handed down for at least ten days. At the conclusion of the arguments Friday afternoon before Judges R. L. Hildebrand and J. A. Chambers, Attorney Benjamin Jarrett for the defense asked permission to file a brief which was granted, with the provision that the brief must be in the hands of the court by Friday, July 18. The commonwealth will then be given until Monday July 21 to file an answering brief.

Germany Names Price For Nation's Approval Of Pan-European Plan

Seeks Revision Of Versailles Treaty And German "Equality"

German Reply Is First Official Demand For Revision Of Treaty

(International News Service)
BERLIN, July 12.—Asking German "equality" and revision of the Versailles treaty as its price for cooperation, the German government today transmitted to Paris a favorable reply to Foreign Minister Aristide Briand's proposal for a Pan-American federation.

Germany's acceptance of the proposal asked that international "equality" be achieved through general disarmament. Germany was forced to disarm under terms of the Versailles treaty and believes other nations should follow suit.

To what extent Germany wishes revision of the peace treaties was not made known but it is understood removal of the "war guilt" stigma contained in the Versailles document would be one of the principal changes.

While full economic cooperation in line with M. Briand's proposal was promised, it was pointed out emphatically that Germany could not bind herself to join any economic federation formed with the specific

Bitter Fight Being Waged To Prevent "Billion-Dollar Merger" At Youngstown

International News Service Staff Correspondent
YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 12.—With trial of the "billion-dollar lawsuit" over the merger of Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. with Bethlehem Steel Corporation placed in cold storage for the week-end adjournment, predictions were freely circulated here today that whatever the outcome of the present case, the battle over the merger will wage on and on, ad infinitum.

There appears to be no doubt that, no matter what decision of Judge David G. Jenkins, who is hearing the spectacular case in common pleas court here, hands down, it will be appealed and the fight will be carried to the bitter end.

The end of the present lawsuit is by no means in sight, despite the fact that attorneys for both sides agreed yesterday to confer this morning to draw up statements of fact, thereby saving two or three days of court proceedings. Anti-merger attorneys say it will take a week or more to complete the presentation of their side of the case. Defense attorneys will

American Bride Of French Flier Is Now Divorced

Romance Which Began In U. S. Just Before Atlantic Flight Is Ended

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
PARIS, July 12.—A divorce by "mutual consent" was granted by the Seine courts today to Jean Assolant, French trans-Atlantic flier, and his wife, the former Pauline Parker, whom he met while preparing for a flight across the ocean in the monoplane "Yellow Bird."

The court ordered suspension of the 600 monthly alimony Assolant has been paying to his American wife. Assolant and the former Miss Parker have been in matrimonial difficulties since a few weeks after their marriage. To begin with, they had difficulty making themselves understood to one another, as Assolant spoke only French and Parker, an aviator, was recovering today from a harrowing experience that followed her ascent to a height of 26,600 feet, 6,600 feet higher than her previous world's altitude record for women.

Descending Miss Alexander lost consciousness at 20,000 feet and failed to recover her senses until the plane was several thousand feet lower. The plane's barograph was en route to Washington today for calibration.

Vacation Trip For President Halted By Fight On Naval Ratification

Is Advised Against Making Trip Westward To Save Embarrassment

By GEORGE E. DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 12.—President Hoover is in considerable of a quandary over the Western swing through the Rocky Mountain National Parks which he announced some time ago he intended to make in August.

What looked two months ago to be clear sailing for a well-earned vacation is now shaping up as a trip fraught with political difficulties.

A tentative traveling schedule still stands and Horace M. Albright, director of the National Park service, continues to make plans for the entertainment of the president and his party in Yellowstone, Glacier, Yosemite, the Grand Canyon, and others of the Western chain, but it is becoming more and more doubtful if Mr. Hoover will venture into the West at all this year.

Advise Against Trip
For various political reasons, a number of the President's advisors were urging against the trip. Already it has been announced definitely that California, Washington, Oregon and Colorado will not be entered even if

Blistering Heat Waves Continues In Mid-West Area

Estimated Toll Of Stifling Heat Of Past Few Days Is 94 Lives

ONE TOWN REPORTS MERCURY HITS 112

Iowa And Missouri Are Hardest Hit By Torrid Heat Of Week

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 12.—Weather forecasters promised no relief today from the record-breaking heat wave which has stifled the Middle West for the past four days, taking an estimated toll of 94 lives.

Cities inland from the Great Lakes have consistently reported temperatures of 100 degrees or above. Sikeston, Mo., yesterday reported a temperature of 112 degrees.

Death Toll Heavy

The death toll in the St. Louis area leads the Middle West, the total number of fatalities since July 4, rising to 33 today. Iowa reports 26 deaths. Ten have died in Minnesota, eight in Illinois, two in Nebraska, and two in Kansas. Thirteen deaths in Indiana were attributed to the heat.

Cool breezes from Lake Michigan have kept temperatures in Chicago, Milwaukee and other lake shore cities below the eighty mark.

Crops and livestock throughout Iowa, Missouri, Kansas and the Northwest suffered heavily from the parching sun. Hundreds of horses and cattle in the St. Louis City, Ia., region have died from the heat. Damage to crops was also enormous, according to reports.

Extreme temperatures in Illinois included Quincy, 106; Mount Vernon, 108; Canton, 104; Peoria, 103; and Centralia, 115.

Sixty-Five Killed In Trolley Plunge

(International News Service)

Buenos Aires, July 12.—Sixty-five persons were killed when a crowded trolley plunged from an open drawbridge and dropped into the Chubula river here today.

Officers Alliger and Wallace reported to the central police station that they discovered a can and hose, apparently intended to use in syphoning gasoline from a truck bearing Pennsylvania license 226X2, on the running board of that machine, which was parked in Diamond Way, about 3:25 a. m. today. They watched for a while, expecting that the persons intending to steal the gasoline from the car would return, but they had evidently been frightened and did not return.

Witness Against Tom Mooney Is Now In Custody

John MacDonald, Baltimore Man, Will Try To Fix Mooney's Release

WAS FORCED TO IDENTIFY MOONEY

(International News Service) BALTIMORE, July 12.—John MacDonald, on of the chief witnesses against the trial of Thomas Mooney and Warren K. Billings in California in 1916, was in custody of the police here today.

MacDonald reiterated a statement made several years ago that he persuaded himself in the Mooney trial by identifying Mooney and Billings as two men he had seen carrying a suitcase near the scene of the preparedness parade in San Francisco just before the fatal explosion.

The long sought MacDonald was held today "for investigation and suspected of being wanted by California authorities." His attorney said he would be willing to return to California if the authorities desired.

Statement issued by MacDonald after his arrest said:

"I, John MacDonald, aged 58 years, residing in Baltimore City, testified as a witness for the state of California versus Thomas Mooney and Warren K. Billings. I never saw Mooney until taken to the all of justice in San Francisco and was told by an officer that this was Mooney (pointing him out to me)."

"My testimony in the various cases was untrue and false. I desire to undo the wrong done by me in sending Mooney to prison, regardless of personal consequences. The authorities got me to testify that I identified Mooney, but this is an absolute falsehood."

GERMANY NAMES PRICE OF NATION'S APPROVAL OF PAN-EUROPEAN PLAN

purpose of waging commercial war on other nations. The proposed federation, Germany's reply declared, would have to conform to the dictum of the late German foreign minister, Gustav Stresemann, guiding genius of Germany's post-war rehabilitation, who said:

"Germany does not propose to oppose the United States of America with the United States of Europe." The conditions set forth in Germany's reply were fully expected, as Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy had given the cue for peace treaty revision in his own pronouncement of a fortnight ago when he declared that Italy, among other European nations, was dissatisfied with the terms of the Versailles document.

In asking general disarmament for the sake of effecting German "equality" with the rest of Europe, the reply again conforms to the sentiments of Mussolini, whose reply emphatically demanded complete land, sea and air disarmament as a necessary prelude to an economic federation designed to recapture Europe's faltering hold on world trade.

Would Revis Treaty. Germany's reply is particularly significant as it embodies the first official demand in some time from this country for revision of the Versailles treaty. While various political factions have strenuously opposed the treaty and many leaders openly repudiated it, Germany has followed its conditions to the letter, abiding by Herr Stresemann's opinion that obedience to its terms coupled with passive opposition to it as an "injustice" would eventually have the effect of seeing its harsh penalties lifted. The demand for revision, however, puts the issue squarely up to Europe. With all the central European powers equally insistent in their demands for revision and with Italy, a victor nation, furnishing a strong moral backing, it appears likely this subject will be the first to occupy the attention of the economic federation when it assembles at Geneva this fall.

Student Pilot Flies Up To 16,100 Feet

(International News Service) DETROIT, Mich., June 12.—Wayne Liston, student pilot at the National Airways school, ascended 16,100 feet recently in an attempt to establish a world's record for student pilots in training planes.

The altimeter on his plane registered 16,100 feet when he found he could not force the plane any farther. He encountered freezing temperatures. Directly below him on the field, formally opened recently, the thermometer read 87. He reported he passed through a sheet storm at 13,500 feet and at 14,500 feet struck freezing rain and sleet which delayed him in his climb. Liston is a student pilot who soloed recently.

on the New Castle-Harburg road. The detour is being used because a stretch of road is being repaved. Croton avenue will be perhaps the best approach to the main streets of New Castle when the little rough stretch is paved.

And all the time the walls of the new Epworth U. P. church at the corner of East Washington street and Butler avenue are rising higher and higher. It shows signs of being one of the most beautiful buildings in New Castle. The stones are well matched and are now about nine feet high.

While Eddie Fritz, sports editor of The News, didn't have much luck in fishing for bass at French creek, on the opening of the fishing season, Pa New has evidence that he was more successful last night on the Slippery Rock, out in the Y camp region. Eddie pulled out a two pound bass, that measured some 15 inches in length.

Frank Mack of South Mill street who has in his possession a Texas horned toad which was sent to him from Canada recently states that the toad likes to sleep in sand. He said that the toad has been under sand for close to two weeks. The South Sider intends to let the toad remain in the sand to see how long it can stay in that manner. The toad is five years old.

Pa New was rather surprised recently to note that while several other men were standing in the Highland car alongside him, one woman persisted in occupying the center of the seat, and did not offer to allow any of the men to sit down. The lady got off the car at Hillcrest avenue, it was noted.

While Pa New was turning from Mercer to Washington street on the green light, last night two ladies in an auto came driving through the red light at reckless speed on Washington street. Pa New fortunately had his auto under full control and evaded a smash-up. The women never stopped, apparently being unaware that they had crashed the red light signal.

Here's another mystery to Pa New. There are some men who never get on a street car, but they feel obliged to stand up on the front platform, alongside the motorman, no matter how many seats may be unoccupied in the car.

utter no predictions as to how long it will take them. The session yesterday was a monotonous, hum-drum affair at which members of the anti-merger legal corps read depositions taken weeks ago in preparation for the case. Among the depositions was one which was given by Grayson M. P. Murphy, New York broker and director of Bethlehem.

The depositions concerned stock transactions—an old story in the merger battle. Testimony, when it is resumed, is expected to center about the unsecured loan of $800,000 by Bethlehem Steel Corporation to Pickands, Mather & Company for the purchase of Sheet & Tube stock to be voted in favor of the merger. The loan was revealed Friday in testimony of Henry Dalton, partner in Pickands & Company.

Anti-merger attorneys are attempting to show violation of the federal anti-trust laws through proof of their contention that Bethlehem money was used in putting across the merger with Sheet & Tube. Dalton's testimony Friday regarding the unsecured $800,000 loan, was believed to have been a point in favor of the anti-merger forces and attorneys for the plaintiffs are expected to take advantage of the situation and emphasize the issue.

Eugene G. Grace, president of Bethlehem, will be called to the witness stand to explain details of the loan transaction, anti-merger attorneys have announced. Elton Hoyt Li, who is reported to have had a part in the negotiation, will also be examined. Other witnesses, whom the anti-merger attorneys have declared they will call to the witness stand, include Frank Purnell, president of Sheet & Tube, and W. J. Morris, financial vice president of the Youngstown concern.

You're the JUDGE

Hinks had been buying goods from an employee of a certain dry goods store for some time. Hinks suspected and indeed proved to his own satisfaction that the employee was stealing the goods he was selling to Hinks.

One day Hinks coming into the store suggested to the employee that he obtain a certain bolt of goods for him that he pointed out. That evening the employee purloined that bolt and brought it over across the street from the store with the intention of delivering it to Hinks next day.

But early next day the loss of that particular bolt was discovered, the employee was suspected and he confessed everything. It was then arranged that the employee go through with the arranged sale to Hinks. This he did, Hinks paying for the cloth about half its market value.

Hinks was then arrested on a charge of receiving stolen property.

HOOVER MAY CANCEL HIS PROPOSED TOUR THROUGH MID-WEST

the journey becomes an actuality and originally it had been planned to visit the Estes Park in Colorado, Mt. Ranier in Washington and the Hoover home at Palo Alto. It is now thought that Mr. Hoover would be embarrassed by Senatorial and gubernatorial fights in those states.

Furthermore, a number of newspapers in the region encompassed by the tentative itinerary printed stories at the time it was first announced that the president had planned to take a militant stand against progressive in Congress who had been attacking his administration by carrying his defense personally into their own territory. This story was promptly denied, but denials are less widely read than affirmative articles and the Hoover advisors fear his trip would be too widely regarded as a swing opening his campaign for reelection.

No Final Decision

He is being counseled urgently to remain in the East where his presence could not be interpreted in a political light and spend his vacation either on the New England coast or in the Adirondacks. Stress had been laid of late on the invitation extended by John Hays Hammond to visit his sumptuous summer home at Gloucester on the North shore of Massachusetts.

Let the Congressional candidates do all the talking; keep quiet yourself and enjoy a vacation in the strictest sense of the word, is the burden of the advice he is being given.

Mr. Hoover meanwhile has made no final decision, and he has told his secretaries he will not do so until after the Senate Naval Treaty fight is settled.

The first event on the varied program, the 100-yard dash, was won by the American invaders with ease. C. S. Meining of Cornell finished first, time 10.3-10 seconds.

B. H. Hand of Princeton took second place. J. T. Andrews, Oxford undergraduate, was third, while R. L. J. Rinkel, Cambridge star, trailed in fourth place.

The 120-yard hurdles was won by W. C. Heasley of Cornell. R. M. N. Tisdall, Cambridge star, finished second. C. H. Clark of Cornell was third. Heasley's time was 15.1-5 seconds, a new record for this international series.

There are 12 events on the program. Scoring is by first places, second place deciding in the event of a tie for first place.

STAR LORE

EMBRACING ASTRONOMY IN EDUCATION

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter

Even the newspaper publishing "Star Lore" must have behind it a certain amount of idealism and imagination in the mind of the feature editor. He, too, must sense, along with the thousands of developing minds of the rising generation, if one has really sensed that the four or five thousand stars he sees with the unaided eye are but the threshold into the vast universe, and that men of genius with their powerful telescopes, ingenious spectroscopes, and the science of mathematics that reduces these observations to accurate science are penetrating to the remotest bounds, then he has prepared his own mind for developing "in tune with the infinite."

new trial. In his argument Mr. Jarrett cited a number of statements of Attorney Margiotti to the jury in which he said, "he shames Jessie James." "The country is waiting for your verdict of guilty." Say by your verdict that Lawrence County stands against banditry." These and other statements Mr. Jarrett said were prejudicial to his clients interests and served to inflame the minds of the jurors.

Says Court Err'd

Jarrett also declared that the court erred when he commented upon the other crimes developed in the career of Dague and said that these remarks "manifested the cause of the commonwealth." He again insisted that there was a possibility that Ernest Moore had shot Brady Paul and said that Margiotti had argued to the jury in the Schroeder case that Irene had fired the fatal shot. "Under such a plea it would not be possible to say that Dague fired the shot," said Jarrett, yet Margiotti went to the jury and argued this.

Answering Jarrett's arguments, Attorney Charles J. Margiotti said that he had made no statements that were prejudicial, and that what he had said was entirely in line with the crime and the evidence. "It is true that I said that the nation was waiting for the verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree," said he, "but I followed this with the statement, 'if the evidence warrants it. We did not ask for a verdict of conviction unless the evidence warranted it, and to support my position I filed affidavits signed by reputable newspaper men who heard the statement."

The argument in Dague's case were not as long as the ones in the case of Irene. Summed up, the defense asks a new trial because of alleged prejudice set up in the minds of the jury by the counsel for the commonwealth and by the charge of the court, also upon the refusal of the court to admit certain testimony and exclude other testimony.

INTERLACHEN COUNTRY CLUB, MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 12.—Starting two strokes behind the pace this morning, Bobby Jones made a gallant gesture towards claiming another championship in golf when he flashed to the turn in thirty-three in the third round of the National Open Title event. Jones shot absolute par or better all the way, having three birdies on the first eight and almost getting another at the ninth. In a trap here with his second shot over the lake, he chipped out twelve feet from the pin and the putt for a birdie just twisted out of the hole.

Meanwhile Horton Smith, the overnight leader with a total of 142 was awaiting the starting signal at first tee but Tommy Armour, Johnny Farrell, MacDonald Smith, Walter Hagen and other leaders were out on the course. Farrell was 37 to the turn, one over par. Armour was two under 4's at the sixth, Hagen was 5 4 for the first three to be a stroke over par and Mac Smith had 5's at the first two to be a couple of strokes beyond par going to the fourth.

Some administration leaders immediately declared their opposition to the reservation. It was understood that Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson was opposed to it. The treaty's opponents, led by Norris, Johnson, (R) of Cal., Hale, (R) of Me., and Robinson, (R) of Ind., declared the reservation would have to be accepted or there would be no ratification. The treaty forces, while ready to accept the reservation, were determined to defeat the treaty, can block ratification, owing to the fact that their group must help the administration each day in maintaining the necessary quorum. During the past week, the largest number of Senators to respond to any roll-call was 53, of whom 17 were foes of the treaty. Should the treaty opponents win the day from the Senate, the administration would be unable to produce a quorum and the session would terminate without ratification of the treaty.

Some bad feeling has been engendered by debate thus far. Senator Hale first chided the American delegation to London for having "surrendered" to the British and Japanese and for having "sacrificed" America's national defense. This was a direct criticism of Senators Reed (R) of Pa., and Robinson (R) of Ark., who helped negotiate the treaty.

Reed Answers

Reed immediately responded that the American delegates were patriotic citizens who had protected their nation's best interests. He declared the treaty either would be ratified or partly secured through competitive bidding "after year have passed and billions of dollars have been spent and another war fought."

Johnson rather placated Reed by pointing out that Messrs. Charles Evans Hughes, Elihu Root, the late Henry Cabot Lodge, and the late Oscar W. Underwood had represented the United States at the 1922 conference only to have the treaty universally condemned afterwards.

"Where is there the man who will now defend that treaty?" Johnson demanded. "And I say, without intending any personal reference, that this treaty is no better than that of competition in diplomacy, with competition in armament a pawn in the game. I am opposed to this treaty because it nullifies naval limitation and stimulates naval competition, because it destroys the Washington ratios and because of the article, declaring no limitation agreed upon now shall prejudice any nation at the conference to be held in 1935."

NINTH DETROIT GANGSTER SLAIN

over to the coupe and stepped on the running board and sent another hail of steel-jacketed bullets into the inside of the car. Eleven bullets were found in the slain man's body and 20 others had been embedded in the car. It was the fifth gangster shooting here in eight days. The outbreaks of the underworld have claimed nine victims.

The carnival of underworld killings started a week ago Thursday night when William Cannon and George Collins, "small-time" Chicago racketeers, were "put on the spot." Hardly had the sensation over the first slayings died down, when two gunmen invaded the home of Patrolman Barney Roth a week ago this morning and shot and killed Roth and John Meitz, the latter a bootlegger.

Those outrages against law and order climaxed this week with the slaying of Samuel and Joseph Gaglio, brothers and operators of a large liquor cutting plant. Two other similar killings occurred here also, which, with the one today, brought the toll to nine.

Talkies Fun At Age Of 92

(International News Service) ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 12.—At the age of ninety-two one spry dame has found something "new and different"—it's the fun of going to the movies.

For it wasn't until recently that Mrs. Helen E. W. Banner of Ontario, visiting in Syracuse with her Rochester niece, Mrs. Edward C. Hausa found what a motion picture theatre was like on the inside. In the span of ninety-two years, Mrs. Banner has seen a good many miracles become matters of fact—but nothing has been so disconcerting as the "talkies." The place was dark as a cellar and the way words fitted lip-movements was something to write home about.

EIGHTIETH BIRTHDAY
HONORED AT GATHERING

Honoring the 80th birthday of Mrs. Kezia Guy of Enery, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wellhausen entertained her family and the Woman's Bible class of the Center United Presbyterian church in their home last evening to celebrate the occasion.

The hours were pleasantly spent informally in chat and music, with a delicious lunch being served at a selected time by the hostess, the appointments in the menu being tastefully carried out in pastel tones. Mrs. Wellhausen had as aides, Mrs. E. L. Guy and Mrs. Scott Guy. At the close of serving, the guest of honor was presented with many beautiful gifts in memory of the day.

Among the guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Emory Roberts and Mrs. Margaret Main of Prospect, Ohio.

Recent Bride Honored.

Honoring Mrs. David Rice, formerly Miss Helen Smith, a bride of recent date, Miss Isabel Watson entertained in a delightful manner associates of the 1929 Bridge club at her home on Delaware avenue on a recent evening.

Cards, forming the chief diversion, was enjoyed throughout the social hours with high score prize being won by Miss Dorothy DeVassie. At the conclusion of play, the honor guest was presented a beautiful breakfast set in behalf of the club members.

Later refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. William Watson.

O. U. Girls Picnic

With their husbands and families as special guests the members of the O. U. Girls of the Central Presbyterian church gathered at Lakewood Beach Thursday evening for a picnic supper.

The table was spread under the trees and covers marked for twenty and when the baskets were unpacked a delicious menu was served.

Concluding supper the various sports at the beach were enjoyed, all returning at a late hour pronouncing the affair a decided success.

Daughters of America Party.

The lawn at the Dannels home, 443 Neshannock avenue, with its strings of Japanese lanterns, formed a lovely background for the card party of the Daughters of America Thursday evening when they entertained their members and friends.

After an evening at cards there were lovely prizes awarded the holders of high scores and the committee in charge served dainty refreshments.

Street Railway
Men Seek Ideal
Type Of Vehicle

(International News Service)
SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 12.—Extensive experiments to determine ideal types of improved vehicles for local transportation are under way in various parts of the country, according to officials of the American Electric Railway Association.

While the industry has agreed that a vehicle of large carrying capacity similar to the present rail car, will continue as the backbone of transportation, and that a smaller more flexible type, such as the bus, will be used in supplemental service, opinions vary as to the best of the two types.

A majority of the leaders still advocate rail cars of the theory that they can supply the most comfortable ride at the least cost per passenger. The group urges higher speed, quick braking, largest possible seating capacity, soft individual leather seats, aluminum bodies, low floors and steps and noiseless gears.

A new school which has lately come into prominence is urging the use of the electric bus or railless trolley. This is an improvement on the original trackless trolley of some ten years ago. It has the body and overhead trolley of the regular electric car, but the chassis of a motor coach. Great flexibility in swinging in and out toward and from the curb, for a space of about twelve feet, is one of the arguments in its favor. More than a hundred of this new type of vehicle are being operated in Chicago, Knoxville, Tennessee and Salt Lake City.

Purchase of most outstanding urban motor coach lines by railway organizations has stabilized sales credit to make many improvements. The tendency now is toward larger engines. Electric drive is available for buses ranging from 21 to 67 passenger capacity. The most universal tendency is toward the single-deck bus, which seldom seats more than forty persons. The Public Railway of New Jersey recently installed 170 new high-powered gas electric buses of a 40-passenger type. Baltimore has installed twelve new double-deck buses but not many double-deckers are being used. They are confined largely to urban centers.

Higher speed is the aim of all operators regardless of type of vehicle used. An average speed of only about ten miles an hour is being obtained throughout the United States. Operators are ambitious to increase this to thirty miles. They aver they can do this if traffic congestion is cleared.

Pittsburgh has had a car in operation more than a year that accelerates faster than an automobile. Baltimore is using an experimental car which will reach a speed of thirty miles an hour at 600 feet. It will accelerate to 20 miles an hour in seven seconds. It has a balance speed of 39 miles per hour. This car is equipped with magnetic track brakes which have reduced the stopping distance about 40 feet at a 25 miles rate. Over 100 cars will soon be equipped with these quick starting and stopping devices. They will constitute the largest fleet of similarly modernized cars in the world. Other companies experimenting with similar modern cars are the Chicago surface lines, the Union Traction Company of Albany, the Third Avenue Railway Company of New York and the Youngstown Municipal Railway of Youngstown, Ohio.

Young Girl Killed,
Nine Injured In Pair Of Accidents

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, July 12.—Two automobile accidents in the vicinity of Middletown, near here, last night, took a toll of one dead and nine injured.

Aretha Lindsay 4, was killed when the car in which neighbors were taking her for a ride collided with one automobile and was struck by the car following. Seven others were injured in the crash. All were from Sheelton and Harrisburg.

Two Harrisburg women were injured when their automobile plunged from the highway and down a 15 foot embankment near Falmouth.

CAPES STILL CUT
CAPERS ON SMART
SUMMER FROCKS

By ALICE LANGEIER
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

PARIS, July 12.—Capes are still cutting capers on all smart wear for summer.

They are coming on everything Madame puts on these days, even her nightgowns. One of the designers in the rue de la Paix is showing a charming little cape-bertha on a rose pink georgette chemise de nuit, falling just over the shoulders and going to a low point in the front. Another one puts only half a cape on a lovely white wash-satin chemise.

In lighter phase, on afternoon and evening dresses, the cape has made a most successful return to fashion. From part of the back drapery of three or four years ago, the vogue of the real cape has also further developed in chiffon, georgette and lace till it equals the popularity of the transparent coat for the races and garden parties or as the "second" piece of the evening dress of great beauty.

Variations of the cape are interesting and innumerable. Evening frocks have scarf-capes which combine the best traits of both. The fragile cape of net with a flounce is worn with a net gown and there are many types of more unusual cut.

Premet gives additional chic to her long coats by means of a cape effect in the back or over the sleeves. On one of her jackets are yokes which serve much the same purpose as on her gowns. She uses them to accentuate the slimmest of the skirt where the slender line continues to a point between knee and hip.

Noted Slayer
Leads Band In Western Jail

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., July 12.—"Clara Phillips and her band."

Or the young lady may choose to be a "dental laboratory assistant."

She's qualified for either, according to attaches of San Quentin prison where Mrs. Phillips, the "hammer murderer" from Los Angeles, is incarcerated for the slaying of Alberta Meadows seven years ago.

When Mrs. Phillips entered prison she bought a saxophone to help while away the years of her sentence, from ten years to life.

Today it was revealed that, under the tutelage of musically inclined inmates, some of them former stage stars, she has become one of the most talented saxophonists in the history of San Quentin, and perfectly able to take her place in a good orchestra on the "outside," according to associates.

Furthermore, she is leading a seven-piece women's orchestra which presents a weekly program in the women's quarters a program said to be highly entertaining, "said to be" because no visitors may attend.

But she does not confine her efforts entirely to music. She is now chief assistant to Dr. Sarah Baker, dentist for the women prisoners.

She has been working in the dental laboratory for two years and Dr. Baker asserts, could easily pass the state examination for dental laboratory aides.

Mrs. Phillips wished "all the luck in the world to Morris Lavine, former newspaperman now facing trial in Los Angeles for accepting an alleged bribe in the Julian Petroleum case."

When she escaped from the Los Angeles county jail after her conviction and fled to Honduras, Lavine followed her and brought her back.

"But," she said, "Mr. Lavine and I

Mrs. Phillips has filed an application for parole and if it is granted she says she will go back home to her home in Texas and start life anew either as an orchestra leader or in a dental laboratory.

WHERE THE HORSE STILL REIGNS

WHEN it comes to breaking up a township of sod, or yanking a threshing combine over a couple counties of grain country, the iron horse personified by the dozens of varieties of farm tractors may have it all over the old gray mare.

But when the corn gets to reaching up and the morning glories and creeping jenny and whatnot get to entertaining similar aspirations, the iron horse is scant consolation to the crop.

When it comes to a cultivator the horse is the thing. His gasoline eating contemporaries have outworked him nearly every place else on the farm but it will be a long time before a corn cultivator follows anything as well as it does a horse.

There are no speedometers on corn cultivators but if there were the country would be amazed to find how far some of them travel in a day—and in a lifetime. If all the corn rows in the state were put end to end and all the cultivators in the state were put on that one long row, the row would band the earth and nary a cultivator would be out of sight of the one ahead and the one behind.

FRISCO' DOESN'T LIKE IT

New Castle is New Castle, but Philadelphia and Chicago and San Francisco is something else again. For instance, the attention of visitors to the city of the Golden Gate this summer will be attracted by posters in street cars and various public places with the legend: "The name of this city is San Francisco—not Frisco." They are part of the campaign instituted by the Chamber of Commerce and other organizations of that city to discourage the use of the popular abbreviation, which is held to detract from the dignity of a great community.

It is said that the offenders are generally strangers and newcomers. Older residents are careful to give the town its official and befitting title. But San Francisco, in the minds of the outlanders, has been regarded as one of the last strongholds of bohemianism, where the manners and customs of the free and easy days of the forty-niners and their descendants still linger—a city of shirt-sleeves rather than frills and feathers and fashionable formalities. And somehow the breezy cheerfulness of Frisco has seemed much more appropriate than the stilted San Francisco, with its suggestion of pompous Spanish grandees.

If not Frisco, then why St. Joe, and San Antonio, Cincy and K. C.? Each of these names "for short" seems to possess a sort of affectionate connotation, after the fashion of other diminutives, that accords with the peculiar characteristics of the town. And they are freely employed by their own people—a fact which robs them of any sting. Even the metropolis of the Pacific coast, newly rejoicing in its promotion to Fifth City, is not averse to being called L. A., without regard for the feelings of its traditional "angels."

Chi, however, is a barbarous appellation. And as for Philly, it arouses the resentment of every true Philadelphian at this mangling of a noble name. If this is the real feeling of San Franciscans concerning Frisco then it is easy to sympathize with their sensitiveness. For despite the Shakespearean dictum there is a good deal in a name, even in that of a city.

DEFECT HINTED IN VEHICLE CODE

The Dauphin county discovery of a defect in the Motor Vehicle Code of 1929 carries serious implications. The clause which requires an offender to be "brought before the nearest available magistrate within fifteen days" is held invalid because the title of the section contains no mention of the restriction. The statutory motive here is perfectly clear. The legislature wished to break up the practice of haling violators into certain courts where a "fining mill" was regularly grinding profits to the justice of the peace and his alert constable. To say the purpose was commendable is but to touch lightly on an evil of which many a motorist was wrongly made victim.

Reference is made to Section 1201, which is headed simply "Information and Prosecutions." It is part of Article 12, dealing with "Enforcement and Miscellaneous Provisions," and, of course, the detail is not touched in the general title of the Act. Invoking the Constitutional requirement for clearly expressing the subject of a bill in its title is a fruitful source of defeating the intent of good laws in Pennsylvania. Doubtless those learned in jurisprudence saw a wise safeguard in the provision. But it can be overplayed by legalistic minds that dwell on technicalities. If sustained in one present instance, many other parts of the code might doubtless be questioned. This point, however, cannot be determined until the full text of the opinion is available, reminds the Philadelphia Inquirer. The topic is one on which the court have rendered a voluminous body of interpretations.

More than two years ago a Lancaster District Attorney was impelled to drop pending charges against hit-and-run motorists because no provision was made in the Act of 1927 for cases in process of adjudication at the time the code went into effect. They could not be prosecuted under the old law because it was no longer operative, and they could not be prosecuted under the new one because the alleged violations were committed prior to the enactment. Usually such hold-over matters are covered by special reference in new legislation. Omission from the Act of 1927, therefore, proved unfortunate.

The coincidence that the codes of 1927 and 1929 should each have a weak spot in dealing with traffic safety is a fresh reminder of how devious is the path of justice in the American effort to cope with crime.

EMPLOYERS AND UNEMPLOYMENT

As their contribution to efforts to improve unemployment conditions, a joint committee of the National Association of Manufacturers and the National Industrial Council, have suggested eight possible remedies, according to a report made public by the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the Federal Department of Labor. The committee's suggestions followed expressions of objection to certain legislative enactments and taxation for unemployment insurance which had been proposed.

While the committee declares that it does not recommend any single one of its suggested measures, it says that each should be studied carefully. Here are the eight suggestions:

Unemployment insurance in industry; a "dismissal wage" for employees who have served for a long period but are not old enough or have not been employed long enough for the regular company pension; stabilization of industry and employment; planned public works for the stabilization of employment; stabilization of the dollar; unemployment insurance through insurance companies; reduction of taxation in industry and seasonal wage adjustments.

Just how we could go about what the committee calls "the regularization of the purchasing power of the dollar," is fathoms too deep for the layman. That looks a bit nebulous to the unlearned. But we can understand how unemployment insurance might be applied, how planned public works would help and how a "dismissal wage" system might be applied through holding up portions of wages to be paid to the employer during idleness, or by extending insurance benefits, or by several other methods.

But whether the employers' suggestions are practicable or not they show an earnest spirit of willingness to co-operate in solving the unemployment problem. That is a hopeful sign in itself—The Little Rock Arkansas Democrat.

"Diamond Lil," typifying democracy in Wall street, is amused by the Caudius H. Huston situation. Mr. Huston is chairman of the National Republican Committee. Some high-minded Republicans, including President Hoover, don't want Mr. Huston as chairman.

But, apparently, the high-up Republicans don't dare accept Mr. Huston's challenge to "come and put me out."

On the way out, Mr. Huston might talk. Democrats wonder what Republicans fear in the way of possible conversation in the "compulsory exit" process.

Almost anybody can do a thing once or twice.

The distinguished Robert T. Jones, of Atlanta, Georgia, does a thing better than anybody else ALL OF THE TIME.

Yesterday, with the thermometer at 100, and 5,000 super-heated enthusiasts following him, Bobby Jones made his first nine holes in 34, two strokes under par, in the National Open Golf Championship. And this he does after cleaning up everything in Europe and consuming the usual welcome home dinners.

When one of his officers announced a victory, Napoleon used to ask:

"What did you do the next day?"

Bobby Jones could answer:
"I went out and beat them again."

Dr. Frankel, learned Metropolitan Life expert, says the philosophic mind rules the child best.

Between the ages of 3 and 15, according to Dr. Frankel, each child goes through all the various stages through which the human race as a whole has passed, from the Stone Age to the present day.

"The philosophic mind," knowing that a young child is a young barbarian, and cannot be anything else, does not foolishly expect too much, and force the child to be a hypocrite.

However, one thing is more important in the bringing up of children than the philosophic mind, or anything else, and that is AFFECTION, and especially the love of a mother.

No science can take the place of that.

It is the mind's expansion and healthy growth that food is to the body. There is no substitute.

If you own an automobile, get in and drive to the Pacific Coast. Gasoline out there is selling as low as five cents a gallon, and it is predicted that the price war will drive it as low as three cents a gallon, the amount of the state tax.

In other words, the producers will give the gas away, charging consumers only the amount of the state taxation.

Rather drastic, but it should lead to some solution of the oil and gasoline problem.

Mr. Burr, research director of Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission, deals effectively with the gar—a cannibal fish shaped like a snake, that destroys great quantities of good fish. Mr. Burr attracts the cannibal with a 200-watt spotlight, and the gar, swimming near the surface, is caught in a net charmed with electricity, stunned, sinks to the bottom and suffocates. It can't live in deep water.

Respectable fish caught in the net and injured. Destruction of the gar will save endless millions of good fish.

If only that could be tried on warlike nations!

Fifty years ago, in Berlin, Heinrich Stephan, German postmaster general, announced that he would establish a telephone exchange for private citizens. Only 94 applications were received. The number rose to 200 within a year.

New York gains in population, partly by cutting down the death rate. Its population which, on April 1, according to the government census, was 6,955,084, will be 7,000,000 on August 10, according to Dr. Ymne, health commissioner.

In New York's metropolitan area within 50 miles of the city hall there are now 11,000,000 people. There will soon be 11,000,000 on Long Island alone.

Eight American girls and women were to be presented to Queen Mary and King George at Buckingham palace last night, the Prince of Wales to take his father's place, should the latter find it necessary to avoid the strain.

Those looking on the performer were to include Prince and Princess Takamatsu, of Japan, spending part of their honeymoon in London.

Born royal, the interesting young Japanese couple just "dropped in" at the palace, the princess desiring to see how the British king and queen handle a court presentation.

Minority Report On Treaty Analyzed As Factor In Fight

Ranked As Statement By Irreconcilable Opposition And Answered By Those Who Believe Senate Should Vote For Ratification

The popular view of the minority report of the senate foreign relations committee on the London naval reduction treaty is that it represents the opposition in congress. Issue is taken particularly with the contention of Senators Johnson, Moses and Robinson of Indiana that it is a "billion dollar treaty for the purchase of naval inferiority." The 11 objections raised by the dissenting Senators form the chief subject of the discussion.

"It is preposterous," in the opinion of the NEW YORK WORLD, "to say that we were outmaneuvered by the British and Japanese, when the facts are that they have agreed to stand still in practically all categories while we build furiously to equal them in some and surpass them in others." The World argues as to the American delegates: "They got Britain to accept an inferiority of about 8.1 to 10 and Japan to accept an inferiority of 5 to 10. They entered the conference with an inferior big-cruiser fleet and they came out with the right to have a decisive superiority." In support of this position DAYTON DAILY NEWS quotes the statement by Earl Beatty, admiral of the British fleet, before the House of Lords, "that England got the worst of the London treaty because it was the only nation that made any reduction of its sea strength."

Referring to Senator Johnson's statement that the treaty "is un-American, that it gives us inferiority to instead of parity with Great Britain and that if we sign it we may do an injury to our growing commerce," the COLUMBUS OHIO STATE JOURNAL contents: "While it is almost apparent that the treaty, if ratified, will not work to our benefit in any way that we can discover, we do not oppose it for the same reason that the senator does."

"We can view the treaty only as it affects the United States, and viewing it from that angle, it is apparent that the treaty neither reduces armaments nor expenses for armament, and it doesn't contain within it the slightest impetus toward that noble, but theoretical, cause of a lasting peace among nations. The few limited agreements which are contained in it are robbed of their power by the safeguard clause which allows any of the signatory powers to break its promises of limitation. It, in its own unsupported opinion, a power not bound by the treaty adds to its navy in an amount that the signatory power believes dangerous to itself."

Answering Senator Johnson's "feverish denunciation" with the contention that "overstatement is less effective than understatement," the SPRINGFIELD UNION says: "A treaty that could grant to every nation everything it desired would be no treaty. A political world that could produce such a treaty would have no need of one." "If congress takes advantage of the privileges accorded under the treaty, this country will be in a position in 1935 to demand further parity and reductions of tonnage, for then we shall have regained the ground lost between 1922 and 1930, owing to the failure of congress to exercise this country's option to build cruisers during that period."

"Opponents of the treaty are devising 'reservations' to states the SEATTLE DAILY TIMES, with the comment: 'Obviously, if the United States should reserve the right to go on building ships without limitation as to number or type, the whole purpose of the treaty is defeated; for certainly the other signatory nations could not be denied the same right.' The Times suggests that 'these senators see in treaty debate the last chance they will have for some time to occupy any place at all in public attention.'"

"Alarmists senators," advises the SAN JOSE MERCURY HERALD, "should read Baron Shidehara's recent address before the imperial Diet. In this he said: 'It is incumbent upon us to reserve ourselves perfect liberty to present at the next conference whatever claims may then appear suitable under the given circumstances. That liberty is explicitly provided for in the present treaty. There is no occasion for the apprehension that the Treaty of London is to bind us hand and foot for all time. To show one's self unduly disturbed under the influence of so pitiful an impression would be an attitude little worthy of a self-respecting nation.'"

Pointing out that the minority report "lists 11 specific objections to the London treaty," the KALAMAZOO GAZETTE contends as to the minority's claim that haste in presenting the matter prevented proper consideration: "The interesting point is that the three protesting senators firmly believe in the justice of these objections despite the 'indecent haste' with which they have been asked to consider the treaty. Without sufficient time to study its provisions, they are able to set forth 11 specific objections to the treaty and to condemn the whole document as unfair to the United States."

The PROVIDENCE JOURNAL maintains that "the reasons they advance for their denunciation of the pact have, for the most part, been discussed at great length by the members of our delegation at London. And in nearly every instance the refutation of the arguments of those foes of the treaty has been more convincing to the laymen than are the assertions of the three senators." The MUNCIE STAR suggests that "their logical course would seem to be—and that should have occurred to them, but apparently did not—that possibly all others in the regiment are not out of step because not keeping time with the objectors. The APPLETON POST-CRESCENT charges "flagrant misstatements and distortions" in the report, and asserts that the position that "we can build the cruisers Great Britain 'permits' us to build" is an "insulting term, both to the British government and to our own."

"More rhetoric than logic," and "appeals to blind prejudice" are among the terms employed by the CHICAGO DAILY NEWS, with the accompanying statement that "foes of the treaty do not stop to ask themselves what the psychological, political and economic effects of rejection of the instrument would be. They dare not face that question." The BALTIMORE SUN assails "resort to every sort of stuff and nonsense to delay ratification," and the LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL describes the protest as one that "appeals to international suspicion rather than logic, to emotionalism rather than reason."

Incidental facts in connection with the "blistering adverse report" receive the attention of the NEW ORLEANS TIMES-PICTAYUNE, which observes that "the treaty opponents reason that their best hope of defeating the pact lies in the attachment of reservations unacceptable to the other signatory nations, or by delay of senate action," and advises that "the treaty's friends, forwarned, should be armed against the opposition tactics."

In the course of a summary of the arguments, the DANBURY EVENING NEWS remarks: "Of course, this treaty does tie our hands, so far, at least, that it prevents us from doing the things that we agreed not to do. But it also ties the hands of those who enter into the agreement with us."

JUST A NEW COLLAR.

Tired of washing the ruffled collars of her husband's shirts, Mrs. Hannah Montague, Troy, New York noticed that the shirts did not need laundering as often as the collars.

She then removed all the collars and hemmed the edges. In the same way she hemmed the edges of the shirt band and provided a way to attach the collar when required. The next step was to provide extra collars.

The husband was delighted. That was back in 1827. Without knowing it, Mrs. Montague laid the foundation of a big industry.

A collar factory with 6,000 employees is located in the city where Mrs. Montague invented the detached collar.

Have Track Meet At Croton Playgrounds

Tony Micco Wins With 15 Points, Miss Mildred Battley In Charge

Contests Prove Very Interesting; Meet Held In Connection With Point System

Friday's feature at the Croton avenue city playground was the track meet for boys and girls of all ages. The meet was held under the personal direction of Miss Mildred Battley who is the supervisor of that recreational center. Tony Micco with 15 points was the winner of the meet Friday. The affair proved very interesting.

The contests were held in connection with the point system. Points are given the playground kiddies in different contests and at the end of the playground season the first five boys and girls having the greatest number of points will receive letters.

On Monday a contest in maulball throwing, running dashes for girls, relay races and high jumping for girls will be held. Sometime next week a horseshoe tournament will be held.

Following are the results of the events held Friday:

Running Broad Jump (boys 16 to 21 years of age). First—Tony Micco; Joe Mattio, second and John Morgan third. (Boys in age from 11 to 15). Fred Letess, first; Mike Isabella, second; and Frank Juliano, third.

Running Broad Jump for boys from 8 to 11 years in age. First Paul Sheerom; Guy Ventura, second and Louie Gentile third.

Running Broad Jump for girls ranking in age from 12 to 16. Doris McClelland, first; Emma Colacua, second and Helen Book third.

Standing Broad Jump for boys from 12 to 16 years old; Tony Micco, first; John Morgan, second and Tony Aveni, third.

Broad jump for boys from 12 to 15; Adolph Lasteria, first; Frank Cimino second and Fred Letess third.

Broad jump for boys from 8 to 11 years old; Paul Sheerom, first; Fred Germani, second and Mike Appicella, third.

Broad jump for girls from 12 to 16 years of age; Betty Gilliland, first; Louise Micco, second and Mary Louise Dwyer, third.

Local Fair Plans Are Discussed

Elaborate Three-Day Program Being Planned For Exhibition This Year

Tentative plans for a three-day program of feature attractions and a variety of other events never before sponsored at the New Castle Fair, were made when directors of the New Castle Fair association met in the rooms of the local farm bureau last night.

Presiding over the session was F. F. Forbes, of this city, president of the board.

The plans of the board this year call for one of the largest fairs ever, the dates being August 5, 6 and 7. Support of the various grange organizations in the country districts and the different civic clubs of the city will be enlisted in an effort to make next month's exhibition a success.

Actual work at the grounds will commence shortly, it is announced, so that improvements and the many other multitudinous tasks may be given attention before opening time.

Featuring the attractions this year will be a revue to be presented by a company under the direction of Carroll Kearns, local producer. Kearns will be remembered for his production "Parr", given some time ago in the auditorium of the Cathedral. Side features will include Roman horse and chariot racing.

Officers of the fair association this year include, besides President Forbes, the following: Vice president, T. J. McCullough, Wampum; secretary, W. B. Rodgers, and secretary of speed, John S. Crowl.

THE TOWN DOCTOR

"DOCTOR OF TOWNS" SAYS

THIS IS THE "LET DOWN" SEASON

Every year when the month of July rolls around there are certain people and certain businesses that regularly get out the old "off season", "Everybody's on vacation" and "it's too hot" alibi for not doing anything.

There is no "off season" for the man, the business or the community that has the gumption to keep going to get it. The very fact that there are so many people who LOOK for a reason and excuse to "let down", and use every chance to get out of work, makes it that much easier for the live wire who really has the "want" to get somewhere, and has it bad enough.

Towns and business that talk the most about business being off and times hard are usually the ones that do not actually try to get business. They wish for more business, when they are not getting half there is to get out of the business that they all ready have. No community, no business, no seller can expect business if he does not ask for it.

If a woman wants a new fur coat she asks for it. Not the "give-me, give-me" kind of asking; but she starts selling — she influences toward the getting of the fur coat. AND, she usually gets it!

Children can teach communities, business people and sellers a lot of good salesmanship. But again it is the case of using that portion of the anatomy referred to as the "noodle", and too many of us look at things we do not see.

Business is based on selling—influencing. If you are going to influence people you have to do more than just leave them to their own alibis. You have first to influence yourself—sell yourself on the idea that if business is off it is your fault—which it is. When you have done that, business will start to get better.

There is, right now, plenty of business that either you are overlooking or do not work to get. Every visitor that comes to spend a vacation in New Castle is more business for you. Everybody who leaves New Castle on a vacation is business for you. Which is the better for you in dollars and cents is debatable, but there is enough either way if you go after it.

Every automobile with an out-of-state license plate that drives through your town is worth an average of five dollars, if you stop them. Forevery 100 you stop you have fifteen thousand dollars worth of cash business that you wouldn't otherwise get. You won't stop them if you don't try—if you don't ask them to stop, give them a reason why they should stop, and then sell them when they do stop.

You who are not in business may say, "that would be fine for the gas station, restaurants and hotels, but where would I get anything out of it?"

In the first place do not be misled into the belief that motorists spend their money only with such firms. Expense accounts of thousands of them tell a different story. But regardless of that, you can't make money unless your neighbor does; and if only $45,000 a month is added to the gross business of the community YOU will get yours—enough at least to pay you to lend your effort to SELL the traveler on New Castle.

Don't "let down" this summer. If you are "let out", all right; but the fellow who doesn't "let down" is seldom "let out".

Never mind that name of his, pronounce it how you will. Though you write him forty letters you may misspell it wrongly still. He has seen the smoke of battle, he has seen brave soldiers die. And there's many a time they've caught him with a tear-drop in his eye.

For that heart of his is tender, and that dream of his is fine And you'll find his fame at Culver, not along the battle line.

Oh, his life is wrapped in boyhood, in their mischief in their play; He welcomes them as youngsters and as men sends them away.

On his sleeves are stripes of service, there are ribbons on his breast, But the glory of his record cannot easily be guessed.

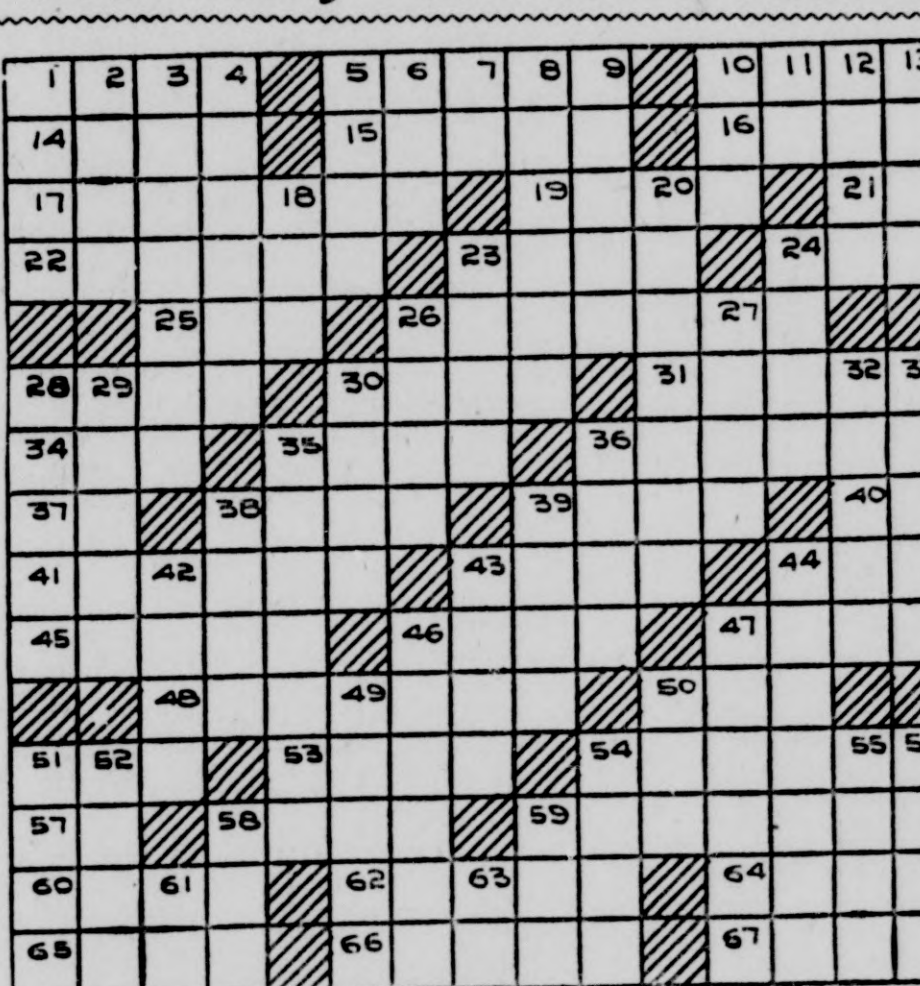

For his influence is maching in an endless line of youth And his victories are many on the battlefield of truth.

Oh, I stood with him at Culver, and the mist was in his eye As those many youngsters passed him and he bade them all good-bye. And I thought some live in buildings which their skill and wealth have reared.

And some put words on paper, and their memories are revered, Some find in wealth brief splendor, but a matchless fame has he Who gives his life to boyhood and the men those boys will be.

Peter's Adventures

A HEAD FULL OF EYES
Fly was mad. He panted for breath and glared at Peter. And Peter tried to apologize for his hasty remark.
"Oh come now, Fly, you know I didn't mean to hurt your feelings. You're not the only fly in the world, you know. And all your family are not so agreeable as you are. When I said flies were 'common' I only meant that there are a lot of them, hundreds and hundreds! Yet I've never seen a fly as handsome as you are. What perfectly gorgeous plumes you are wearing on your head!"
"All flies wear plumes," remarked the fly, sternly, but Peter could tell the fellow was pleased in spite of himself. "Tee, hee aren't humans funny?"
"Why?" demanded Peter.
"Because they talk so much and know so little. Why, they call me plumes fliers. I've even heard them say I ate with my feelers. Ridiculous!"
"Well, you hear with them and smell with them, don't you?" Peter was sure he, at least, knew what he was talking about. The fly snickered.
"I'm sure I'm not sure," replied he. "Maybe, although since you ask me point blank, I believe I feel things rather than hear them. However, what's the difference?"
"How bright your two eyes are," remarked Peter, changing the subject. At this remark the fly fluttered with laughter.
"Two eyes, indeed! Four thousand eyes, and more, have I. If you don't believe it, count them. Single eyes and double eyes. Eyes that look this way and that way! Nothing gets by me!"

Noted Speakers For Conference

Foremost Authority On Moslem Problems On New Wilmington Program

SILVER ANNIVERSARY WILL BE OBSERVED

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., July 12.—United Presbyterians in the Middle Atlantic and other states are registering to attend the Silver Anniversary of the New Wilmington Missionary Conference, to be held here Aug. 8-15. Widely-noted leaders and an extensive recreational program will climax twenty-five years of conference history.

Samuel M. Zwemer, D. D., who occupies the chair of missions at Princeton Seminary, will be one of the chief speakers. Dr. Zwemer is probably the foremost authority in the world on Moslem problems.

One of the outstanding figures in the Southern Presbyterian church, Wade C. Smith, D. D., and H. A. Kelsey, D. D., professor of Bible and vice-president of Muskingum College, are among the leaders.

United Presbyterians who will be active in the conference include W. B. Anderson, D. D., secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions, and Mills J. Taylor, D. D., chairman of the board of managers of the conference.

Robert A. Foster, India. Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Hoymann, Egypt and other missionaries have an important share in the week's program.

Delegates will include young people and adults interested in young people's Sabbath school, missionary, and general church activities. The campus and buildings of Westminster College here will be opened to the conference for sessions housing and entertainment.

Find Motorists Overcharged By Some Justices

State Motor Federation Will Wage Campaign Against Excessive Fines

FEES ARE CHARGED IN EXCESS OF LAW

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 12.—Complaints from various parts of the state that certain aldermen and justices of the peace are exacting from motorists fees in excess of the amount fixed by law for minor traffic violations led the Pennsylvania Motor Federation, state unit of the American Automobile Association, to announce today that it will contest such practices.

"Whether through misunderstanding, unfamiliarity with the law or intentional disregard of it, some of the justices and aldermen in Pennsylvania who are entitled to no more than $2.25 in fees are exacting $3.50 and, in some instances, as high as $3.75 and $4.00 in costs for summary conviction under the motor code," said S. Edward Gable, president of the Federation. "This not only is unfair to the motorist, but contrary to the provisions of an act passed at the 1929 session of the legislature."

Act Is Quoted

Mr. Gable quoted the act of Assembly as follows:

"In all cases of summary conviction relating to the use and operation of motor vehicles, and suits for penalties relating to the use and operation of motor vehicles, whether under statute or ordinance, the total fee shall be two dollars and twenty-five cents, which shall include the giving of a transcript to either the defendant or prosecutor, or both, if same be requested."

The Federation head explained, however, that only magistrates who have been elected or re-elected since the act went into effect in April, 1929, come under the new regulations. Those elected previously and whose terms have not expired are privileged.

leged, it is understood, to impose the old and higher rate of fees, as the law provides that the compensation of an alderman or justice of the peace may not be reduced during his elected term of office.

"Although authorizing increase in many of the fees chargeable by justices of the peace and aldermen, the legislature saw fit to decrease the costs of minor law convictions," said Mr. Gable. "A large majority of the magistrates in Pennsylvania comply to the letter with this new scale of fees. It is not against these that our attention is directed, but against those who persist in levying costs to which they are not entitled under the law."

"We ask no leniency for the motorist who violates the law. What we urge, however, is that any driver apprehended for minor violations of traffic regulations, whether under state statute or municipal ordinance, be given a fair hearing and, if convicted, be required to pay no more in fine and costs than the Act of Assembly permits."

Coast Boy In Toils Of Law For Causing Death Of His Playmate

(International News Service) LONG BEACH, Cal., July 12.—Admitting that he pushed James Ellis, three, into the Los Angeles river flood control channel and holding his head under water "just to see how long he could stay down," according to police, La Verne McDonald, seven, little boy two-time offender, Friday was held in custody awaiting action of the coroner's jury in the case of the Ellis Child's death.

La Verne has made a complete confession, police reports disclose. Dr. Frank R. Webb, autopsy surgeon, disclosed that the Ellis child's death did not result from drowning, but from an enlarged thymus gland of the throat which enlarges suddenly from sudden pressure or unusual exertion.

Chicago Honors Admiral Byrd

Famous Antarctic Explorer Given Rousing Welcome By Citizens Of Chicago

(International News Service) CHICAGO, July 12.—Chicago Friday paid homage to Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd.

Planes roared overhead, locomotives, factory and steamboat whistles shrieked a greeting. Thousands shouted applause from the curb as the Arctic explorer left the Union station and passed through the Loop to his hotel.

A parade at noon up Michigan avenue to the Press Club, where the national hero was to be luncheon guest was the high point of the reception. Civic leaders of Chicago turned out en masse to meet the famous Virginian. Governor Louis L. Emerson was the principal speaker at a banquet.

In the interviews Rear Admiral Byrd subordinated his own part in conquering the South Pole and gave his assistants credit for the two most important exploits of the expedition. These, he said, were the long dog trip by Dr. Lawrence Gould and George Thorne and the flight of Capt. Alton Parker.

Bo Broadway

by JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

By Central Press. NEW YORK, July 12.—As a blow to crime, the cops in Tammany Town, who just received an $18,000 salary increase, staged a greensward party for a couple of thousand kids and their mothers, from the tenements.

Some benevolent blokes of the Broadway breed—bankers, they call themselves—tried to horn in on this here party, but th' cops wouldn't leave 'em.

The excursion, which is the first of a series, is regarded by Police Commissioner Mulrooney as the greatest crime deterrent ever undertaken by New York's Boys in Blue.

"Th' Big Idea is," says Mulrooney, "that outin's like this will learn th' kids to come to th' cops instead of runnin' away from 'em."

PLAYING SAFE. A little sidelight on The Party: Sandwiches, cakes, eggs, fruit, and sweets in abundance were loaded on picnic trucks; but Sol Levy, aged eight years, brought his own lunch as well. Interviewed, he said: "I gets awful hungry!"

STATISTICS. Among 4,400-claims recently analyzed by a New York accident insurance concern, 807 were the result of baseball mishaps. Three of the 4,400 were damaged playing ping pong. More than a hundred were scared by fireworks. Swimming and bathing followed baseball in relative danger, with wrestling and "friendly scuffling" next. Boating, skating and tennis followed in the order named.

No mention was made of the greatest of all outdoor sports: Arguing with Traffic Cops, or the leading indoor amusements: Opening Car Windows for Pretty Girls, and Skidding on the Procter-gamble in the Bathtub.

FAMILY ENTRANCE. The razing of an old, midtown building has disclosed on the wall of the house adjoining, the faded letters of a sign advertising a one-time famous drinking place. At the bottom of the sign appear the words: "Family Entrance."

For the benefit of the Younger Set, who breezed into adolescence under the Noble Experiment, it may be explained that in the days B. V. D.—Before the Volstead Disaster—most

Foster's Weather Forecast

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Period July 10 to 21 is expected to be the most stormy of the season, on both the Sun and Earth. As spots are formed on the Sun by the opposition of Mars and Venus on the tenth, the conjunction of Jupiter and Mercury on the eleventh the opposition of Saturn and Mercury on the thirteenth, dangerous storms will be general in North America. This period is also expected to be the hottest of the season and the force of these storms is expected to be sufficient to carry them well into the south. While most force is expected to center on 12, 16 and 20, severe local storms will occur thruout the period. Considerable damage will probably occur to crops from the heat of this period. Most precipitation will occur during storm waves centering on 20 and during moderate storm waves centering on 28, as cool waves cross continent following these storm centers. During the period 10 to 21, storms are expected to be attracted to the northwest and northern Pacific slope before moving southward, but most force will occur in the cyclone area in southern Great Central valleys. This will be expected to carry some much needed precipitation to the northwest.

Star Of Wales To Install Officers

Newly Elected Officials To Assume Duties Saturday—Welsh News

By Wm. A. JOHNS (Brython)

The Star of Wales Lodge No. 69 True Iovites of America will hold a meeting Saturday evening July 12 at their lodge meeting place, the Emmanuel Baptist church on Reynolds and Jefferson streets. The meeting will start at 7:30.

The installation of the following officers will take place: Past president, Evan Hopkins; President, Joseph Leyde; vice president, Daniel Hughes; Stewart, Isaacs; Conductor, David Harris; Inside guardian, David J. Clement; Outside guardian, Joseph Fugh; Auditor, Evan Hopkins; Griffith Phillips; and Joseph Leyde. Trustees, Thomas Grey, Henry T. Jones, and Griffith, Thomas; Secretary, Thomas D. Thomas; Treasurer, Daniel Williams; Recording secretary, William A. Johns, Brython.

News has come to our city that Rev. Samuel Whilding the former pastor of the First Congregational Church has accepted the call he received from the Welsh Presbyterian Church of Jackson, Ohio. He will start in his new field of labor on the second Sunday of this month Rev. Whilding left New Castle some time ago to become the pastor of Oak Hill, Ohio and he and his family were very happy at that place and it is very hard on his part to make up his mind to leave Oak Hill for Jackson.

Mrs. Thomas D. Richard the wife of the singer Tom Richards of Warren, Ohio is busy preparing for her trip back to dear old Wales. She will take the National Estedford of Wales every day for the first week in August. The people of Warren and New Castle are wishing her all the success on the great journey.

The Welsh reunion of the Welsh people of the city and of Pittsburgh will be held next Saturday July 12 at Schenley Park. The observance of this day will be held under the auspices of the American Gorsedd and the Women Welsh Club of Pittsburgh.

Joseph Williams, the basso of Pittsburgh visited our city last week and he made the home of Llewelyn Thomas of South Mercer street very sorry when time permitted him to visit more of his friends in the city. Joseph Williams will be remembered as one of the employees of the Pennsylvania Engineering Works then he had a position with the Butler Store of New Castle. He was then removed to the city of Pittsburgh under the same company. While in this city he was a member of the quartet at the First M. E. Church and the Apollo Club. He is filling the office at the present time of a soloist at the First Baptist Church of Pittsburgh.

The Welsh Women's club held their annual convention last week at Akron, Ohio. It was held at the Portage Hotel and a great amount of work was done for the benefit of the Welsh home at Cleveland Ohio. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. A. C. Vaughan, Lakewood, Ohio; First vice president, Mrs. Margaret Luyer; Second vice president, Mrs. A. L. Agate Elyria, Ohio; Financial secretary, Mrs. Erskine, Meridian Youngs.

Rains Endanger Tobacco Crop

(International News Service)

WINDSOR, Conn., July 12.—Woes of the tobacco grower are being brought to light by the state agricultural experiment station's workers in a sub-station maintained in the heart of Connecticut valley tobacco regions here where trained men check up on all sorts of conditions and rush out bulletins to aid the men who raise acres of tobacco. A late bulletin told the farmers their tobacco crops are in danger of undernourishment because heavy spring rains had washed away more than half the nitrogen that had been applied to the soil to give a quick healthy growth to seedling plants.

"Top-dress your fields quickly," the growers were told.

Ford Buys Old Tin-Peddler's Cart

(International News Service)

MILFORD, N. H., July 12.—Henry Ford has another one for his museum. He has purchased the old tin-peddler's cart which for nearly 100 years has carried pots, pans and kitchen ware about the New Hampshire countryside.

It was formerly used by the late James Fay, and before he owned it S. B. Cotton was the owner. They sold tinware from door to door all over the state. Samuel Nailbow of the town was the present owner before selling to Mr. Ford.

HOW TEN LARGEST CITIES RANK

Returns of 1930 census are near enough completion to give the exact ranking of the ten largest cities in the United States. The figures given are for population within actual city limits. Figures for metropolitan districts would greatly increase the total figures and likewise change rankings in several instances. For example, Boston would rank high in the list, as would Pittsburgh. San Francisco would displace Baltimore and be well up in the list. Ranking of the first four cities, however, would remain the same with figures representing metropolitan districts. Figures for metropolitan districts will be announced later.

Local Boy Takes Part In Weight Contest At Camp

Representative Group Is Chosen Which Includes Joseph Augustin Of This City

TEST CONDUCTED AS HEALTH EXPERIMENT

FORT WASHINGTON, Md., July 12.—The Pennsylvania boys at the C. M. T. C. here this year are an unusually healthy lot of youngsters, according to the medical department records. Very few have turned up at sick call and all of those have been trivial cases, too much soda or candy, sunburn and an occasional cold.

Chiggers, the minute insect that burrows under the skin and makes sores, are a particular nuisance in this section of Maryland, but few boys have suffered from the medical department of the post scattered sulphur liberally before the boys arrived and killed the insects off. That action alone, the doctors say, cut the sick call roll by at least 50 per cent. Mosquitoes, also, were almost eliminated by oiling all streams and stagnant water, as well as cutting away the underbrush.

An experiment is being tried this year with a group of 16 boys, four from each company. Previously the weight of the boys has been taken on their arrival and departure, then the combined poundage has been computed and the average gain, for it is always a gain, figured out.

The special group contains the "heaviest, lightest and two average" candidates in each company and they are being weighed each week so that an idea can be obtained as to their progress as they go along. It is felt that a more accurate picture can be obtained in this way. The heaviest should drop off many pounds of fat and the others should gain, but as one of the doctors said, "You never can tell about boys."

Joseph P. Augustin of High street, this city, one of the members of Company "K", is among those who are taking part in the experiment. Augustin weighed 180 pounds on his arrival and his weight at the close of the first week was 179 3/4.

Receive Word Of Mother's Illness

Local People Plan To Make Trip To Wales To Visit Their Mother

Mrs. Dulcie Arnold Lewis and Dudley M. Arnold of 814 Highland avenue have received word of the illness of their mother in Swansea, South Wales following the recent death and burial of their father. They plan to sail from New York on July 25 for an extended visit here. Dudley Arnold Lewis, six-months-old son of Mrs. Lewis, will also make the trip. Mrs. Lewis is the wife of L. J. Lewis, chief clerk of the Pennsylvania Power company, while D. M. Arnold is employed as chief bookkeeper with the same company.

Pouring Concrete Near Grant City

County Commissioner P. O. Elder was at Harlansburg this morning looking over a gas line a section of which must be removed to make way for the Perry Highway. Contractors are now pouring concrete near Grant City, according to Mr. Elder, while grading work is being completed on other sections of the road. The contractors are working north, toward Harlansburg from Grant City. The weather has been unusually favorable and rapid progress is being made.

Hay Crop Good In County Says Ball

While crops are very much in need of rain, the dry weather has been of service to farmers in getting up their hay. Assistant County Superintendent of Schools C. F. Ball, reports that the hay crop throughout the county is unusually good this year, and that it is being harvested in the best kind of shape. In many instances farmers are delaying cutting their wheat in order that they may get up their hay.

Many Save Discount On County Taxes

County Treasurer Adda M. Smiley reports that county taxes are being paid in fairly heavy volume. Many people desire to save the discount which can be obtained this month.

Another advantage of paying county taxes early is that there is always a rush about the time that the discount goes off and the taxpayer loses considerable time.

PERSONAL PROPERTY SALES ARE HEAVY

Personal property sales have been unusually heavy during the past few weeks, according to Sheriff Frank N. Johnston. At present the sheriff has ten personal property sales advertised. In six of them household goods have been seized. The other four sales are automobiles, which have been seized in the transportation of liquor.

You know how you feel toward the human race? Well, that's about the way it feels toward you.

Brown Desires No Postponement Of Ballot Hearing

Emphatic Denial Is Made At Offices Of Candidate In Philadelphia

(International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, July 12.—Emphatic denial was made here today at the offices of Francis Shunk Brown, Sr., that he wished further postponement of the supreme court hearing on his appeal from the Luzerne county court decision regarding the legality of the Luzerne county ballots cast in the recent primary.

Brown was out of the city himself but his aides pointed out that two weeks ago when the case came to the attention of the supreme court Mr. Brown indicated his willingness to go ahead and argue the case that very day.

It will take ten days or two weeks yet to secure a complete transcript of the testimony taken in Luzerne county, Brown's assistants said, and one of the members of Brown's counsel is out of the city on an extradition proceeding, but it was said Brown has no intention of asking any further postponement and will be ready to go ahead with the case when the high court convenes on August 8.

FIRST PERIOD AT CAMP ENDS AT EAST BROOK

First camp period at Camp East Brooks ends today. Many of the 42 girls, who have sojourned there for the past twelve days, left last evening for their respective homes. The remainder left the camp this morning.

The period of camp has been a long remembered experience for those girls. Every hour has been filled with some enjoyable feature. Miss Dorothy Stewart and her group of councillors succeeded in giving the campers the times of their lives. The program in charge of Miss Elsie Ewing has been a unique and varied one. The girls have had over night hikes, swimming at Lakewood Beach, camp fire meetings, picnics, parties and games.

This afternoon, delegates to the Queen Esther Missionary Conference are arriving. They will spend a week at the camp.

Asks City To Buy Fire Hose

It is reported that Fire Chief Lynn will ask Councilman Clayton Reeves, superintendent of the department of public safety to recommend to council that 1,250 feet of new hose be purchased. According to Lynn's opinion the hose is needed. He would like to have 1,000 feet of cotton rubber lined hose and 250 feet of red rubber hose. The former would be 2 1/2 inch and latter one inch. Some of the fire companies are in need of the hose.

City Clerk's Letter Reaches Solicitor

City Clerk Cordelia Zeigler Jones has forwarded a councilmanic letter to Solicitor White in which he is asked to furnish the city council with an opinion relative to the city's liability for the paving of Laurel boulevard between Highland avenue and Neshannock boulevard. It is probable the written opinion will be handed to solicitors next week.

Salvation Army Given Pulpit

The local Salvation Army corps, 34 West Washington street, received a fine desk pulpit for use in the services at the hall just previous to the service last night. It was needed and the gift, which was presented by friends of the organization, is greatly appreciated by Ensign V. Thomsen, officer in charge, and the members of the local corps.

Fire Stations Being Improved

Workmen are improving all the fire stations in the city, according to Councilman Reeves. All stations are being repainted, the tin work repaired and where needed paper is being put on walls. The tower at the Fifth ward department has been lowered and the bell put in a new hanger. No real improvements have been made in eight years, according to Reeves.

Complete South Side Fire Station Tower

Old Bell Close To 42 Years Old Is Being Used In New Tower

It was announced today that the new tower of the Eighth Ward Fire Department located on Sciota street which has been under construction for the past few weeks has been completed. The old bell which at first was thought to be unfit and dangerous to use was found to be in good condition and has been placed in the new tower.

The bell is some 42 years old and has a rather rare story. It came in existence during 1889 and was first used on the old fire department tower located on Moravia street. Following the destruction of this fire station the bell was removed to the Eighth Ward department. It rested on the old tower of the South Side station for 41 years and only a few weeks ago was removed. Now it has been moved in the new tower.

The new tower is not as high as the old tower. The old tower was over 25 feet high. The present erection is

Activities Resume At "Y" Camp Following Dedication

(Special To The News) CAMP FRED L. RENTZ, July 12.—After a day of preparation for the dedication on Thursday, "Y" Camp Fred Rentz spent Friday in cleaning up and generally straightening up the grounds. With 600 people around the camp, it was naturally a bit out of order and the boys spent today in restoring things in place.

In the afternoon Butler "Y" Camp "Yo He" and "Y" Camp Fred Rentz clashed in a baseball game on the New Castle boys' camp field. Merle Hart umpired this game. After seven innings of exciting baseball the local boys came through with an overwhelming victory. A fifth inning rally led a lead of four runs served well and let the New Castle boys have a lead not to be threatened at any time during the game. Coach Eaton of Butler was in charge of the "Yo He" boys and Coach MacNichols of New Castle was in charge of the Fred Rentz boys. Two athletic events were run off in the evening. These were the standing and running broad jumps. These events served to give the boys more points toward their emblems. In the evening another campfire was held, this one being in the council circle, the first to be held at this spot. Stories were told by members of the camp. From the camp proper a dim fire light designated the place of the campfire. Visitors present also expressed their delight at the beauty of the place. The members of the camp who told stories were Reed Shiner and Dick Tanney. The stories were topped off by a long story by Henry MacNichols.

Merchants To Close For Big Picnic July 23

Arrangements Are Completed At Meeting Held In Chamber Of Commerce Friday

EXPECT THOUSANDS TO ATTEND EVENT

Plan To Make Affair Biggest In History With Many Added Attractions

At a group meeting of the merchants of New Castle held Friday afternoon in the Directors' Room of the Chamber of Commerce, arrangements were completed for the big Merchants Picnic, which will be held at Cascade Park on July 23. The various businesses represented at the meeting agreed to close their stores on the afternoon of the picnic at 2 o'clock, and all the other merchants of the city will be asked to cooperate with them in this respect, in order to make the picnic a complete success.

There was an excellent attendance of merchants at the meeting and practically every line of mercantile business was represented. All indications point to the picnic this year being one of the most outstanding events ever sponsored by the mercantile industry in New Castle. Last year, it was estimated that 18,000 people were present at the Merchants picnic and from all indications, the number will be greatly exceeded this year.

The event will be participated in by all branches of merchandising, namely the dry goods and department stores, shoe stores, hardware stores, grocery stores, etc.

The various committees which were recently named to take charge of the different phases of the picnic are now busily engaged in preparation for the event, and many novel features will be introduced to make the picnic an outstanding success.

The public is cordially invited to attend and be the guest of the merchants on this occasion. Everyone will be welcome and a wholesome good time is assured for all who are present. The merchants are holding this picnic as an expression of their appreciation of the patronage of the citizens of New Castle.

Wholesale House Scene Of Robbery

Entrance Is Gained To The Place Of The New Castle Grocery Company

Thieves early last night forced an entrance into the place of business of the New Castle Grocery Company on Produce street and stole a quantity of ginger ale and other small articles.

Discovery of the robbery was made last night about 8:15 o'clock by William B. Howe, member of the firm, as he returned to the office to do some work after his evening meal.

Officers Kennedy and Flinn were detailed to make the investigation and found that a window in the rear of the place had been broken open to gain entrance.

The investigation is continuing and hopes of apprehending those responsible is held by the authorities.

Counterfeit Bill Passed

Greyson Coates, who is associated in business with his father, Alderman H. G. Coates of the seventh ward, reported to the police this morning that in a business transaction Friday he received in amount a number of bills a counterfeit $20 bill. The discovery that the money was a counterfeit was made by the bank where Mr. Coates made the deposit.

The bill was turned over to the police this morning and Detective C. G. Logan and Officer Thomas Lynch assigned to make the investigation. An effort is being made to trace the bill to its first point of local distribution.

Small Blaze In Seventh Ward Home

Seventh ward firemen were called to the home of John M. Bevan of 901 West Clayton street at 5:05 last evening, where one of the children, playing with matches in the cellar, set fire to some papers and things stored in the cellar.

Damage amounting to $25 was caused by the fire, which was quickly extinguished by the department.

Youth Drowns In Monongahela River

Dream Of Life Time Ends Tragically For Bellevue Boy

(International News Service) BROWNSVILLE, Pa., July 12.—A long dreamed of job on a river steamer had ended tragically today for one of two pals who last week signed up with the Steamer Roosevelt as check-boys.

Claude Unger, Jr., 16, and John Marquis, 15, both of Bellevue, a Pittsburgh suburb, the pals, went swimming in the Monongahela river here last night where the Roosevelt was docked and when well out in the stream Unger was seized with cramps.

Cries of the youths reached another of the boat's employees, Frank Strong, 30, of Pittsburgh, and he plunged into the water to aid the youths. Strong, however, was unable to quiet the fear-stricken Unger and both were drawn under the water as Strong tried to rescue the drowning boy.

During the struggle other boat employees put out in a skiff and managed to drag the exhausted Strong and Marquis out of the water, but could not reach Unger.

The youth's body was recovered from the river an hour later. Unger and Marquis obtained employment on the boat last week. Yesterday the Roosevelt came here for an excursion and late in the day while it was docked at the Monongahela wharf, the boys went swimming in the stream.

Deny All Reports Support Of Germany Is Sought By Italy Against France

(International News Service)
BERLIN, July 12.—German government officials influential in foreign affairs indignantly denied current reports today that Italy has made a bid for an alliance and France one for German neutrality in case of a Franco-Italian war. Rome and Paris similarly denounced the reports.

Authoritative sources for the government here characterized the report of the proposed Italian-German alliance variously as "idiotic" and one of "complete nonsense."

The report, cabled to the United States, suggested that Italy had approached the German government with an offer of military alliance, and that France on learning of this move immediately sounded the German foreign office on the matter of remaining neutral in case of strife between France and Italy. The story, it was suggested here, apparently was based on the exaggerated speculations over the recent Italian-French naval controversy appearing in many European newspapers.

High government spokesmen pointed out that Germany at present must continue her policy of keeping her hands free of all entanglements, carefully watching all developments. This, they added, is well known to all European governments.

The alleged French inquiry into Germany's attitude in case of trouble in Italy is to my mind an idiotic report," a high official declared. "Somebody must have a malicious purpose in spreading such a report."

Another said: "The report of Italian and French offers for military understanding with us in case of trouble there can be regarded as complete nonsense. Our relations with Italy are entirely friendly and there is no thought of either side extending itself beyond that. Our relations with France at present are a bit under tension because of the Rhineland disturbances that naturally followed the French evacuation there."

Rome, July 12.—The Italian press as a whole vigorously denied reports today which emanated from Berlin that Italy and France had courted Germany in regard to a military alliance. The Italian government, it was stated, is seeking no foreign military entanglements with any power at present.

the heating research bureau of the C. A. Dunham Company.

"The history of the industry," the research experts state, "is that swings in both directions are too severe. Controlled stability of business, the chief aim, may finally be achieved by proper guidance of the building industry."

When labor is plentiful and materials cheap relatively few concerns push their plans and make large savings, the company officials claim.

Improvements At Grove City Home Planned By Board

Superintendent Of Odd Fellows Home Authorized To Improve Property

Some small improvements are planned at the I. O. O. F. Home in Grove City. Attorney C. W. Fenton of this city, president of the board stated today. Mr. Fenton has just returned from Grove City where the semi-annual meeting of the board was held Thursday. At that time, the directors of the home inspected the property, which consists of 260 acres of ground with the home and outbuildings.

New silos are planned in addition to repairs to the present buildings will be made during the coming summer.

Whistles As He Eats

Boy Has Extra Set Of Vocal Cords Known As "Bird" Cords, Experts Say

By Central Press
NEWMAN, Ill., July 12.—Every boy likes to whistle. But there probably is only one youth in the world who can whistle and eat at the same time. Gerald Kay, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hobart Kay, of Newman, has that gift.

Gerald is a throat whistler and specialists have informed his parents that he has an extra set of vocal cords known as the "bird" or "robin" cords.

Few Throat Whistlers
There are five known throat whistlers in the world, and Gerald seems to be the only one with the ability to satisfy his appetite while he whistles.

Not long ago Gerald was in his grandfather's store at Freedom, Ind., on a Saturday night, entertaining a group of customers. He ate 12 strawberries while he was whistling and then one of the bystanders suggested he try a cracker. The lad proceeded to eat two crackers as he whistled.

The boy's unique ability was discovered when he was a baby. While crawling on the floor one day, he whistled for his dog. A little later, just when he was learning to talk, he gave his parents another surprise by whistling a tune.

Gerald does not mind appearing before an audience. He prefers large audiences to groups of four or five.

Siameo Puts In Mysterious Appearance At Scout Camp

(Special To The News)
CAMP JOHN M. PHILLIPS, July 12.—Scout Camp Phillips, one of the most scenic spots of Lawrence County, was a place of much amusement and activity Friday. Siameo made his mysterious appearance before the camp and made his demand for the sacred knife. Since it could not be found it was looked for in the water and was found on a ledge twelve feet down. After this the boys were mysteriously initiated into the graces of Siameo while a tom tom set up a weird sound which was accompanied by the doleful yell of the men of Siameo. Boys initiated into this mysterious lodge are expected to ever remain true to its rites and above all give strict obedience to Siameo.

Adjourn Hearings On Freight Rates

Relief To Iron And Steel Manufacturers At Pittsburgh May Not Come

NEW CASTLE MAN WAS PRESIDING

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, July 12.—Relief of Pittsburgh iron and steel manufacturers and shippers from recently increased short haul freight rates will not come for several weeks if it is to come at all, it was evident today following the adjournment of the hearing on the rates before the Public Service Commission here.

The hearing came to a close yesterday afternoon with counsel for the railroads attempting to procure a definite 60-day adjournment. Commissioner Charles H. Young, who presided, refused the request and said the commission would set a date for the final hearing which probably would be held in Harrisburg.

The hearing was the result of complaints brought by the Pittsburgh-Des Moines Steel company against the Baltimore and Ohio, the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie, and other railroads that freight charges on short hauls were excessive.

Gureney Orcutt, assistant general commissioner of the Pennsylvania Railroad, expressed surprise when he learned switching zone rates were also to be included in testimony. He requested two months postponement to "complete our studies and prepare to submit our exhibits."

The complainants' counsel, through W. W. Collin, Jr., termed the maneuver unfair. The objection, he said, would be withdrawn if the railroads would agree to refund the complainants the extra freight charges in case the commission decided against the carriers.

Testimony at the hearing yesterday was similar to that given on the first two days of the hearing with steel and iron manufacturers and shippers declaring the new rates which became effective May 20 were threatening Pittsburgh's position in the industrial field.

Members of the executive board of the Lawrence county chapter, American Red Cross, met in the chapter rooms last evening in special session to discuss the nursing service.

Miss Marie Peterson, new field director for western Pennsylvania, was present and made recommendations for the improvement of the service here, following a three-day survey made earlier in the week.

The board expects to adopt these recommendations during the coming year.

The nursing service is one of the most important phases of the work carried out in New Castle and Lawrence county, free service being offered those who are not in a position to employ a nurse. This service is also offered to others who are able to pay for it, a nominal charge being made for the service of the nurse.

A great number of local people have availed themselves of this service during the past year, and it is felt that many others would do so but seem unaware that such a service is offered through the chapter here.

HOLD-UP KILLER DIES IN CHAIR

Execution Takes Place At Columbus, Ohio, Last Night

COLUMBUS, O., July 12.—Lawrence Dull, 26-year-old Tiffin slayer, died without a murmur in the electric chair at Ohio penitentiary last night. He was convicted of murdering Roy Tish of Pindlay during a gasoline station holdup at Postoria several months ago.

No relatives or friends visited Dull in the death house during the day. His only visitors were newspaper men and to these he had little to say.

Dull's aged father visited him on Thursday and bid him farewell.

Dull's hope to escape the chair was dashed last week when, after a hearing, Gov. Cooper refused to intervene. A petition signed by several thousand residents of his home county, asking clemency, was presented, but Dull's attorneys said they could find no new evidence and the governor said he could find no grounds for intervention on his part.

Red Cross Chapter Discusses Nursing Service At Meeting

New Field Director Makes Recommendations For Improvement Of Service

Members of the executive board of the Lawrence county chapter, American Red Cross, met in the chapter rooms last evening in special session to discuss the nursing service.

Miss Marie Peterson, new field director for western Pennsylvania, was present and made recommendations for the improvement of the service here, following a three-day survey made earlier in the week.

The board expects to adopt these recommendations during the coming year.

The nursing service is one of the most important phases of the work carried out in New Castle and Lawrence county, free service being offered those who are not in a position to employ a nurse. This service is also offered to others who are able to pay for it, a nominal charge being made for the service of the nurse.

A great number of local people have availed themselves of this service during the past year, and it is felt that many others would do so but seem unaware that such a service is offered through the chapter here.

Mercer County Fairs Lose Bingo

District Attorney Bans Game In Connection With Coming Exhibitions

MERCER, Pa., July 12.—It has been announced that the Mercer County Fairs will lose one of their most attractive and interesting games this year, in "Bingo." Hundreds are attracted to this game and many go just to play it. Several years ago District Attorney Leo McKay announced that it would have to be made a game of skill rather than chance, a plan was then devised where the player threw a feather at the numbers and they have been allowed to go on for two years that way, but McKay now announces that there is to be no more "Bingo" in Mercer County. With the removal of all games of this sort the county fair is becoming almost a thing of the past, with nothing to do but drink lemonade and ride the "Merry-Go-Round."

REDEEM ROAD BONDS

Grange Members Plan Program

Last Meeting Interesting; Picture Of Grange Founder Is Unveiled

Westfield Grange will present Amos and Andy "person" at the next meeting, July 21. An interesting program will be given the grange members and the lecturer will accept requests for that evening if given before the date.

On last Monday, the grange met and had quite a large attendance. The outstanding feature of the evening was the unveiling of the picture of Oliver Hudson Kelly, by the Master, Buy M. Fullerton.

This picture was presented to Westfield Grange by the National Grange as a reward for having recently initiated a class of 16 candidates. Oliver H. Kelly was the founder of the Grange, an organization which is and has been of great benefit to the farmers for many years.

Those taking part in the program and their presentations were:

Vocal Solo—Mrs. J. N. Fullerton and Miss Gertrude Fullerton.

Piano Solo—Jean Brewster.

Reading—Grace Wallace.

A Talk—Suggestions for keeping the fraternal spirit alive in the grange, by Julius B. Hund.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Six states—New York, Illinois, California, Michigan, Ohio and Pennsylvania—have the largest number of automobiles registered in the United States, according to figures released by the Bureau of Public Roads.

The Commerce Department census showed only 5,193,019 motor vehicles registered in France, England, Canada, Germany, Australia and Argentina.

One To Every 55
The census showed 35,127,500 automobiles registered in the United States, of which 26,540,000 were in the United States. The world's population of automobiles is one to every 55 persons. As compared to one to 67 the year before, ownership of automobiles in the United States was shown to be one to each 4.5 persons and in the rest of the world one to 67.

Collection of motor vehicle taxes in the United States, most of which went to the construction and maintenance of the public roads amounted to $347,843,543 last year, according to the public roads bureau.

Automobile registration in New York state was almost as great as in England and France combined, with 2,263,259 cars. California ranked second with 1,874,341 motor vehicles, Ohio 1,776,614, Pennsylvania 1,533,273, Illinois 1,685,068 and Michigan 1,395,102.

STOP THE SHOOTING

Three times as many revolvers were sold in the United States in seven months of 1929 and 1930 as in the same period the preceding year. To stop the sale of revolvers except after the most careful investigation and for the most carefully established reasons is one of the ways to get at the root of crime. We do not spend enough time thinking about the contributions which law-abiding and so-called respectable citizens make to the crime record of this country. Most of us do something to promote crime although we would be indignant if charged with having any sympathy with the criminal class. The bad citizenship of many of us comes not from deliberate intent but from negligence.

RULES AND RULES

A 156-year-old Turk visiting America says his great age is due partly due to the fact that he doesn't drink liquor and never has. And on the same page of the paper we will doubtless read the story of somebody who is 104 years old and boasts that he has used whiskey all his life and can't see any sense in prohibition. The Turk, born about the time of the battle of Lexington, says he has been a piano mover since 1800. He interests us a lot. He doubtless is not as old as he thinks but is older than most men. He demonstrates what the human being can stand. We might all live to be 150 if we lived normally, ate little, slept much, worried none. But listening to the rules for long life is worth little. There is no general rule. What is good for one system is not good for another. Stefansson, Arctic explorer, lived six months on nothing but meat and it agreed with him. He neither lost weight nor gained weight and his blood pressure was not affected. Others, eating no meat, fare vastly better. The best way to let others make rules for you. Make them for yourself. Use your judgment and study the results.

ENDING WAR

In 1917 Uncle Sam went to war. Some got the idea that this was to be his last war. The world thereafter was going to be kept in line by treaties and a general desire for peace. Now 13 years after we declared war for the last time, we are spending three times as much for military purposes as we were then. Peace is a plant that grows slowly. It has yet hardly broken through the soil.

WHAT AND WHERE?

Somebody writes that 15 million lie dead in the tombs of Rome, and once they were in a hurry. Sick beds, hospitals, unhappy homes, and cemeteries are full of people who were in a hurry. The next time you find yourself in a hurry, excited and upset, ask yourself where you are going and what for.

Bids for the paving of 8.07 miles of the new route of the Perry Highway through Mercer and Crawford counties were opened at Harrisburg Thursday and the contract awarded to the Hanlon & Oakes Company of St. Paul, Minn.

The contract, calling for the construction of a plate girder bridge, three reinforced concrete bridges and including the concrete roadways was let to the low bidder for $498,565.

With the letting of this contract, and work which has already been done or is now under way, only about 15 miles remains to complete the Perry Highway between Pittsburgh and Erie, all of which should be completed within the next two years.

The Parent Problem

by GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Let Kiddies Share Cares Of Camping

Many parents will have children in summer camps, some will be with them in cottages, besides the sea or lake or in the mountains, and a few will accompany their children to a summer boarding place.

When your boy or girl goes to camp don't make him promise to write to you daily and don't write him every day. A letter a week is better than six.

What would the youngster write home every day for several days which he would enjoy writing, and what could a parent write from home as often worth his reading?

We parents have an opportunity to put some thought and time into our letters to our children. All of us might profit greatly by re-reading "Theodore Roosevelt's Letters to His Children."

Those in camp ought to hear from Dad as well as Mother. Don't tell them how they are missed nor pour out to them the story of your sacrifices in the heat at home. They now are in camp. You want them to have their interests where it ought to be and get most out of it. If they write indicating feelings of homesickness, don't let it worry you. Merely answer them as if all is well and tell them about the normal doings of the family and the best news of the neighborhood.

In case you feel it desirable to remind them that their pleasures are being bought at considerable price, write about the other parent. Let Dad tell of mother's self-denials and Mother about dad's, neither of his own. We may be able to lead our children to appreciation of the things we do for them in this way if we are skillful and don't overdo the matter. It is doubtful, however, whether we make them considerate of us by reminding them of what we ourselves do for them. It smacks too much of selfishness and self-praise.

Anyway, our moralizing words are of little value from the pen or from the tongue. We best teach appropriate regard for us by our children as we live with them, letting them share in the home responsibilities, not giving them too much money, too many luxuries and, best of all, by not making personal sacrifices merely to gratify their whims. On the other hand, we make them ungrateful as we deny ourselves too much on their behalf.

Don't be too liberal with advice. When you give it slip it in adroitly. Make them feel that they must look after themselves, becoming whole-some citizens of the group in which they are.

From letters between parents and their children in camp one could learn a great deal about their relationship, incidentally about the parents' human frailties.

If the camp is well directed the boy or girl will not be allowed to have much spending money or many opportunities to make purchases.

In case you are with your children in a cottage, let those old enough have definite responsibilities for the household cares. Some mothers would rather stay at home in the city than to endure the drudgery of caring for a family in a cottage. Bad it is for the character of the children who do not share a good portion of the domestic burdens so that the mother has considerable time for rest and recreation. If there are several children over eight or ten she should have very little to do but to manage. No reason why Dad should not help also. If there are young children to care for he certainly ought to have a large part in the care of them. If she assumes the burdens of the household cares why should he not reciprocate by bearing the heavier portion of the load in responsibility for the children? In the camping family let it be fifty-father, fifty-mother.

Local War Veteran Presents Formal Claim For Disability Compensation

Charles H. Barron of 819 West Washington street has the honor of presenting the first claim for disability compensation under the new act of congress signed last week by President Hoover.

Forms for this purpose were received by the Lawrence county chapter, American Red Cross, yesterday morning, and as soon as the fact had been made known through The News, Mr. Barron came to the office to make formal claim.

The forms received at the local chapter are temporary forms which have been mimeographed at the Pittsburgh office of the U. S. Veterans Bureau, pending the printing of regular forms at the government printing office in Washington.

Many other local veterans are expected to present their claims within the next few weeks.

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD

I suppose it's a perfectly natural thing for her to do, but somehow I never could understand why a woman invariably blames the other woman when her husband makes a misstep. To hear her tell it, her husband didn't want to fall—he loved his home too much. But it was a case of a good man suddenly gone weak in the face of persistent flattery.

Ho, hum!

Right now I have before me a letter from a wife who says that her husband stepped out of line. She didn't nag him about it and she did not tell him she knew. She just waited. Then when he asked her to go some place she told him that she wouldn't go any place with him while he was coveting with some other woman. She said he could stay at home or take the other woman, but he couldn't do both. He left.

That was all right, and she saved her self-respect at least. BUT she adds: "The other woman had a hard luck story and my husband being sympathetic, fell for it. She is a married woman."

Lady, lady! You can't talk a peach down off the tree. It has to be ready and willing to fall. If your husband told you that, he isn't exactly what I would call a good sport. He is pecking out from behind the skirts of the woman who "tempted him and he did fall." Somehow I think I would have more respect for him if he had said that he was to blame and had absolved the woman. Don't you wonder what the other woman would think if she knew what excuse he made?

I wouldn't tell you what to do in a case like that, but inasmuch as you have already done it, why worry? You were right, but if you still love him why don't you sit back silently and wait your time? He is rushing head-on into a storm. The chances are he will come back and be sorry. Meantime the less you say about him and the other woman, the better.

You say "the silly age of 50 or over" broke up your home. That "men are never too old to be fools." Why men? Are any of us? The only time to boast about not being a fool is on the way to the cemetery and then you can't.

Getting righteously indignant never helps the erring one to retrace his steps. It only makes it more difficult for him.

I like your comment that you didn't tell your husband at first what you had found out "because if he would live a lie he would tell one." You know what the Bard of Avon said: "Rather be a toad and feed upon the vapors of a dungeon, than keep a corner in the thing I love for others' uses."

The time to save these situations is before you hear about them, and that difficult. Don't blame yourself. Be patient. Wait and if you still want him, have hope.

I can't answer the last question because I don't know how you treated him when you had him. If this is his first mistake don't be too bitter. Forgiveness is the fragrance that the trampled flower gives out to bless the foot that it crushed.

(If I'm wrong write me, care Premier Syndicate, Inc., 235 E. 45th St., New York City.)

Little Red School
House Is Passing

BUTLER, Pa., July 12.—The rapid passing of the "little red schoolhouse" in Butler county was indicated today when the Butler township board of education announced that it had voted to abandon five one-room school buildings in the township this year.

The schools to be abandoned are known as Oakwood, McCandless, Eberhart, McCalmont and Vogel. Several of these are among the oldest in the county, and former pupils are scattered in many states.

Two other buildings were abandoned last year. They are the Graham Terrace and Hinchberger schools, and they have been replaced by a consolidated building, known as the McQuiston school.

FINE PIECE OF LAND AT A GREAT BARGAIN

This is a fine place for a Miniature Golf Course, right close to the business center of the city. The plot is two hundred feet wide and one hundred and ninety feet deep. This piece of ground is located on Beaver street, just across the street from the old Sheng and Valley Hospital, and is part of the hospital grounds. It is about half a block from Grant street and it can be made level as a floor with a scraper in a few days. Go up and look this ground over and you will see what a wonderful bargain you can get. There is just one tier of lots between this plot and Jefferson street.

HERE THE MASSACHUSETTS BAY COMPANY HELD ITS FIRST MEETING IN AMERICA. THE WATER SUPPLY AT CHARLESTOWN PROVED INADEQUATE, THE COLONISTS DECIDED TO MOVE AGAIN.

THE COLONY WAS TRANSFERRED TO A NARROW NECK OF LAND, KNOWN TO THE INDIANS AS SHAWMUT BUT CALLED TRI-MOUNTAIN BY THE PURITANS BECAUSE OF ITS THREE HILLS.

THE WORK OF BUILDING A TOWN WAS BEGUN AT ONCE. THE PLACE WAS NAMED BOSTON AFTER THE PURITAN VILLAGE OF THAT NAME IN ENGLAND.

Smith Or Jones To Win National Open Says Davis Walsh

Horton Smith Is Two Strokes Up On Jones As Golfers Start Terrific Grind

National Open At Interlachen Will Close Today—Jones Must Battle Hard

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 12.—Like so many marionettes, dangling inanimate upon unseen wires, and subject only to the whim that might move the fingers of fate, five men waited this morning for the peremptory call that destiny may make upon their immediate lives.

They were Horton Smith, avid after his first major championship; Bobby Jones, avid after his twelfth; Harry Cooper, the light horseman of the fairways; Charles Lacey, the unknown; and MacDonald Smith, known wherever golf is played, and they apparently were the only entries who had a chance to win the National Open Championship, scheduled to end late this afternoon over the green traches of the Interlachen Country Club.

Others, including Walter Hagen, Johnny Farrell, Whiffy Cox, Tommy Armour and John Golden, may have had a fighting chance in this last 36 holes down the stretch run. But only the big five knew definite possibilities so whimsical is the fancy of golf that even they were incapable of dominion over their own actions.

Smith Holds Lead
"I am the master of my fate," sang the immortal Henry, but he knew nothing of the caprices that lurk in hiding on every golf course to defy resolution and try men's souls. Horton Smith was one of the few who could invite the trial with a fair degree of aplomb.

This nine o'clock boy from Joplin, Mo., was sitting on top of a twelve o'clock world this morning as the third round of the championship was about to begin. He had followed his sparkling 70 of yesterday's second round, and so he had the great field trailing his aggregate of 142 into the final day.

Jones, the man who wants to add the two American titles to those he recently acquired in England and thus create a one-man monopoly over the championships of the world, had to retrieve a two-stroke deficit in order to realize his ambition before the deadline at nightfall. His round were 71-73 for a total of 144 and a tie with Cooper and Lacey, and it was taken for granted that he needs must cleave closely to par today or forfeit the honor he seeks.

Mac Smith rested alone in fifth position at 145, if a man who almost won in 1910 and hasn't won since, can be said to rest. He was a stroke beyond Armour, Cox and Farrell and two in front of Hagen and Golden, this situation making it barely possible that the championship might be won neither by a man named Jones nor another named Smith. Less routine matters have come to pass with one Jones and two Smiths in the first five.

36-Holes Today
Thirty-six grueling holes will be staged today by way of imparting the final flourish to the championship and out of this seething day of competition, is supposed to come the man who is entitled to call himself champion. If the name is Jones, the title will not be worthy of the golfer who holds it. He has won everything he over aspires to do. It all over again, just to be sure. Lloyds of London, set odds of 50 to 1 against Jones winning the four titles he seeks, yet Lloyds would be glad to lay this price off with some sap concern today, rather than chance Jones' ability to come up from the future rear and claim the thing upon which he has set his heart.

He did this at Seeto in 1926 when he overtook Joe Turnesa in the closing holes and came on to win. But Turnesa, plausible as he may be, is not Horton Smith.

Smith Is Good
The latter is a worthy champion, even if he holds no championship of importance. Turnesa is just one of those young fellows, trying to get ahead. Start Smith off with a 2-stroke lead and he is liable to forget to come back and meet anybody who happens to be following him around. The man has everything in his favor, even strategy. You can't beat the strategic value of having shot your score before the other fellow starts to shoot his.

However, nearly all of the tournament weight, so to speak, is at the top of the list, and in a case like this, anything is possible, including tie today. Any time you have Horton Smith, Jones, Cooper, MacDonald Smith, Armour, Farrell and Hagen grouped within a radius of five strokes of 36 holes to go, the possibilities of a dead heat are limitless. Only the giant in heart and spirit can live through the double round that today offers and can come on to play the golf that is asked and, in fact demanded of a national champion. Those back of 147 might start coming but they have too far to come and too many good ones to run over. So doubtless the champion-in-prospect will be found among the first ten in the overnight returns and almost any of them will be a worthy one.

Two-Man Finish
Actually, the thing would seem to have narrowed to a two-man finish between the Smith who has won everything except a big championship, and the Jones who has won everything and wants to make it unani-

The latter not only can flout all precedent by acquiring the amateur and the two open championships of England and America, but he can win his friends down in Atlanta, snug stipend, amounting to a mere $250,000. This is the sum they stand to win from Lloyds if Bobby Jones can do the thing that no golfer ever has done and probably ever will do.

Personally, the writer would think better of his chances if he was two strokes in the lead, instead of Smith. The latter has been in the lead before. He has almost made it a point of staying there. Few golfers better combine the ability and the temperament of a champion than does this simple, unaffected young man who, three years ago, was unknown beyond the out-of-bounds stakes of his own golf course.

Jones and Horton Smith as befitted their rank in relation to the rest of the reduced field of 69, were to start this morning one full hour apart, in order that the gallery might see much of each. Bobby, paired with Turnesa, was due to start at 9:15 o'clock. Smith, exactly one hour later in company with Don Moe, the amateur. The rest of the men will start, but what of it? It isn't what you start; it is what you finish that counts, and, somehow, I suspect that the one who finishes this tournament definitely, finally and for all time, will be a man named Jones, or Smith, or something like that.

Cascades Trim Congregationals

In an exhibition game at the Clifton Flats field the Cascade A. C. of the City-County league defeated the Congregational team of the Church league 6 to 3 in a well played game. Coates on the hill for the Cascades hurled a fine game. Mehalic was the feature hitter of the game with a pair of home runs, while Neyman had a triple.

The Cascade team plays Energy at Energy this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in a league game. Monday night at Frank avenue field the Cascades will meet the Enon Valley team in a league game. This game is changed from Wednesday to Monday, and all players are asked to take notice of the change. Also the Cascades want games with first class teams; call E. Price at 3756-J.

Gallant Fox Is Favorite Today

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, July 12.—Gallant Fox and Jockey Earl Sande, two monarchs of the American turf, face a field of ten 3-year-olds today in the $70,000 added classic at Arlington Park.

A crowd of 50,000 or more persons are expected to view the classic. Gallant Fox, considered the greatest race horse since Man O' War cut his record in racing history, was at 2 to 5 in the betting overnight. When he goes to the post at 5 o'clock this afternoon he may be at 1 to 5 or 1 to 10, according to indications.

Should this 3-year-old champion of the year win today's classic his stake winnings for the last sixty days will pass the quarter-million dollar mark.

Senators Face Detroit Tigers

Washington Must Win Two Games From Pesky Tigers To Stay In Race

YANKS ATHLETICS
BATTLING HARD

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 12.—Baseball's eyes today centered on the league-leading Senators, the very much contending Athletics and the death-gasping Yanks.

Washington plays two games with Detroit today, Philadelphia battles St. Louis and the Yankees tangle in a twin bill with the bogged-down White Sox. The Yanks-Sox clash again Monday in a double-decker and the series, six games in four days, may determine if the Shawkey men are to continue as contenders or start the slide that means oblivion.

Babe Ruth's three-day suspension is ended and his return to the lists today paves the way for better things from the disorganized New Yorkers. That the bambino is fit and fully recovered from recent injuries was evidenced yesterday in an exhibition tilt with the Toronto Leafs in which the great man concoted two homers and a double, driving in seven runs in all.

Tigers Hit Hard
Detroit may give the Senators a real fight for they are in hitting mood defeating Cleveland yesterday 11 to 1 as they gauged up on pitchers Brown and Miller for 18 safeties. Waite Hoyt held the Indians to seven bingles.

Caraway confined the Browns to seven well spaced blows and the White Sox lowered St. Louis 5 to 3. Jeffries of the Alabasters got a homer.

Effective hurling by Ervin Brame and a walk and four hits by Paul Waner gave the Pirates a 6 to 2 win over the Cardinals.

Keystones Drop To C. A. C. Team

The Keystones were held to one hit by the splendid pitching of Gray as the C. A. C. team took a 9 to 6 victory in a game played at the Seventh Ward Field. The C. C. C. boys had nine hits off Nickum. Gray baffled the Keystones in every frame and but for a scratch hit by Zidow might have had a no-hit, no-run game.

Amateur Baseball

The Lyndal street Midgets downed the Fall Track midgets 25 to 24 in a game played yesterday.

The I. W. W. team defeated the Sparks 11 to 7 in a game played at the Gaston Park Field. The pitching of Adams featured the game.

The Keelie nine bested the Cubs 10 to 9 in a game played at the Keelie Field. Vassella on the knoll for the Cubs allowed but seven hits and fanned eleven men.

S. A. R. Golfers Invited To Play In Valley Match

Inter-City Tournament Being Sponsored By Ambridge Sons July 17

Members of the New Castle chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, have been invited to participate in a sectional S. A. R. golf tournament at Ambridge on Thursday, July 17. It was announced by Attorney Homer C. Drake, today.

The letter, written by Attorney M. E. Rowley, member of the Ambridge chapter, says that S. A. R. golfers from all over this section of the state will take part.

Steinbrink Assigns Church League Umps

The Church League schedule and umpires for the coming week in the New Castle Church League were assigned as follows by Jack Steinbrink, vice-president of the league:

Monday July 14:
First Congregationals vs. Cen. Presbyterians, Clifton Flats, Black.
Tuesday July 15:
First Christians vs. Third U. P., Scotland Lane, Dunn.
Thursday July 17:
Third U. P. vs. Cen. Presbyterians, Frank avenue, Jones.
First Christians vs. Congregationals, Scotland Lane, Bishop.
Friday July 18:
Cen. Presbyterians vs. First Baptists, Scotland Lane, Black.

North Highland Tops Old Timers

The North Highland team topped the Old Timers baseball team in a game at the North Highland field. The score was 17 to 7. Hanna on the knoll for the Old Timers was touched for twenty-one hits. Lamm held the Old Timers to eight blows. D. Altman featured the game with a pair of home run drives. W. Cannon and Jenkins had four hits apiece.

Congregationals To Have Meeting

Congregationals Meet Central Presbyterians At Flats Field Monday

Congregational baseball team, winners of the first-half of the Church League schedule, will hold an important meeting Sunday afternoon at the home of Jack Steinbrink at 106 East Reynolds street. It is important that all players attend this meeting.

Monday night at the Clifton Flats field the Congregationals will battle the Central Presbyterians at 6:15 o'clock in what looks like a feature game. Both teams are battling for the lead in the Church League for the second-half.

Hudson will go to the mound for the Congregationals with White behind the plate. For the Presbyterians the hurlers will be Sargeant and the catcher will be Hill. A great game is looked for and a big crowd will no doubt attend this contest.

Al Singer Is Down To Weight

DELAWARE WATER GAP, Pa. July 12.—Al Singer weighed 134 and one half pounds today and that is just the figure he expects to carry when he meets Sammy Mandell in New York July 17.

Singer appeared fit this morning as he went on the road. He boxed seven rounds yesterday. He will probably not box after Monday.

The New Yorker went three rounds with Marty Goldman, three with Billy McMahon and one with Jackie Schweitzer.

SORDS POINTS

Control Spells Secret Of Pennock's Current Success

By JACK SORDS
Central Press Sports Cartoonist-Writer

CONTROL, lots of control, when the going is rough and when the game and opposition are easy—that spells the success of Herb Pennock, veteran Yankee pitcher, this season.

At the close of the 1929 campaign the Squire of Kennet Square looked all squashed up and ready for the record books.

Herb felt the victim of neuritis in the autumn of '28 and his work last year showed the result; nine wins to 11 beatings, when the current campaign got under way with Herb past his 36 milestone the experts were feeling sorry for him.

But they reckoned without the Pennock control.

Today Herb is one of the shining lights of the American league mound with a record of seven straight wins. And it is all because Herb's arm still possesses the cunning which enables him to place the ball just where he wants it and the batter doesn't.

Another proof of Pennock's steadiness is the fact that he went through 38 innings in a row this season without issuing a single pass. In 53 consecutive innings he gave but three walks.

Despite his years Herb works regularly and he takes his turn against the toughest opposition. Victories over the Athletics and Indians, two first division outfits, prove that he is still able to stand up against the best of them.

Ty Cobb once called Herb the greatest southpaw of his generation. And Herb probably was. However, he's still good enough to give the letters of his generation a run for honors, thanks to his control.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Primo Carnera looks good. That is the consensus of some of the fans who journeyed to Youngstown last night to see the big fellow in exhibition. He took on two heavyweights and a big crowd watched him. In the real fight of the night Paul Pirone stopped Frankie Russell.

We're convinced now that the only way to catch bass is to carry along a crew of valuable assistants, especially after what occurred last evening in the Slippery Rock at the Big Rock. As a result we caught a two pound big mouth bass. Years ago the Big Rock, now a swimming hole for cottagers, was one of the best bass holes in the county.

He had been swimming around in the hole for days but wouldn't go for the crabs so yesterday we got a frog out of Wolfe creek and with the friend wife, the sons and Jack Cooper started for the Big Rock. The bass came out, turned his nose up at the crabs so we tossed in the frog and that frog made Mr. Bass big mouth yearn.

The frog wasn't in the water a minute until the big mouth had him. He was given plenty of time then reeled in. Of course there were assistants as Ed. Jr. and Jack Cooper caught the frog and our friend wife as usual presented her moral support but Jack Fritz, 8, he was complimentary: "Yea," said he, "you wouldn't have got him if Eddie hadn't told you how to get him."

And perhaps that is true.
While fishing we saw W. J. Offutt leap into the stream and swim. And how! He can show up a lot of these chaps who are wearing letters for their aquatic ability.

New Castle Y boys defeated Butler Y boys at the Rentz Y camp, yesterday, 2-0.

While traveling along Wolfe creek yesterday we picked a group of fishermen who had a lot of rock bass and black suckers. Some of the latter must have weighed three and four pounds. There are bass in the stream but they won't bite, the fishermen reported.

With Grant street torn up it isn't likely there will be any boxing shows there for a week or two unless Promoter Bill Jolly wants to take a chance on the strangers finding the route. A decision on this will be reached within a few days.

Mickey Solomon was to have fought Johnny Piat at Conneaut Lake. Mickey was ready to enter the ring when someone brought him word that Johnny had suddenly departed leaving Mickey and the club flat. That means suspension, as it should, for Mr. Piat.

Bill Nunn knows his golf. Yesterday he offered to bet that there would only be one ahead of Bobby Jones at the end of the second day. His prediction came true as Horton Smith led the field and now he has cards of 70-72 while Jones, Cooper and Stacey are tied with a total card of 144. Tommy Armour and MacDonald Smith faltered in their play yesterday.

Italy and Japan broke even in Davis cup tennis play yesterday at Genoa.

Greer McIlvain, Oakland is the new Pennsylvania amateur golf champion. He beat Watts Gunn in the finals at the Allegheny Country club yesterday.

Sixty thousand are expected to see the Chicago turf classic today worth $70,000. Gallant Fox is the favorite.

Sammy Mandell In Peak Condition

ORANBURG, N. Y., July 12.—Sammy Mandell, training here for defense of the world's lightweight title against Al Singer of New York at the Yankee stadium July 17, said he was almost at the peak of training today. He said he would probably reach the top of his form tomorrow and would then begin tapering off.

The champion boxed six rounds yesterday, working two each against Ralph Lenny, Bobby Risdon and Pete Laratonda.

Mandell almost knocked out Risdon in a hard exchange, the champion landing on his sparring mate's head with a stiff right. Risdon's knees wavered, but he was able to continue.

Informed today that New York had installed Singer a slight favorite, Mandell said that pleased him.

"I always make my best fights when the other fellow is favored to win," he said. "They picked McLarmin to beat me and that night I turned in one of my best fights."

Pirates Defeat St. Louis Cards

Ervin Brame Outpitches Cardinals Staff And Pirates Win Six To Two

PITTSBURGH, July 12.—Brame pitched for the Pirates and the Pittsburghers banged out a 6-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals yesterday afternoon. "Little Poison" Waner was back in the game for six innings and to celebrate the occasion his brother Paul hit safely four times. While the Cards were collecting eight hits off Brame the Pirates collected 16 off Hallahan, Haid and Lindsey. The box score:

Dog Resembling Mutt Finds Home Through Recent News Story

ELLWOOD CITY, July 12—When Mutt, Tom Moorhead's dog returns from the Welfare camp where he is enjoying romps with children and nice cool naps under shade trees, he may not like it, for while he is away, another "Mutt" is replacing him in the affection of many people, some of whom believe that it is the original Mutt.

Mutt is a jealous dog, but this stranger which was brought to the Moorhead residence three weeks ago by the kind hearted dog catcher, Benny Stokes (who liked his eyes) is apparently forgetful of everything but that he is alive today.

Following the story published in The News that this arduous which was so very much like Mutt that it was necessary to see whether this dog bore the result of a dog fight in previous years for the owners to be certain, the dog catcher received many callers. Some of them drove up in large cars in order to take the dog with them, but were unwilling to pay the necessary charge fee as well as the license.

Included in the lot of visitors, was a man, Gurley Evans who has four children to be protected. As he repeated his visit a number of times he became more and more attached to the dog, which he wanted for his very own.

Although he found it impossible to pay for the dog, he offered Benny Stokes to work it out, by helping to drive the truck. Not having enough work—even for himself, Benny said this was impossible, but the problem was solved yesterday, when a woman unable to have the dog herself paid for the fine and cost of keeping the dog in order that Mr. Evans might claim him.

Now the dog which has been adopted by the workmen of the streets as well as the children, all insisting that he is Mutt in spite of the explanation that Mutt is on the farm for the summer, rides about in the dog catcher's sedan with his little boy, while Mr. Evans is in a town nearby searching for work.

A license and collar are to be purchased for the dog which has lost one home, but finds a new one with many friends already formed by a dog so like him in expression and manner that it would be impossible to tell which was which.

Woman Pays For Dog And License In Order To Give Dog Good Home

ELLWOOD CITY, July 12—When Mutt, Tom Moorhead's dog returns from the Welfare camp where he is enjoying romps with children and nice cool naps under shade trees, he may not like it, for while he is away, another "Mutt" is replacing him in the affection of many people, some of whom believe that it is the original Mutt.

Mutt is a jealous dog, but this stranger which was brought to the Moorhead residence three weeks ago by the kind hearted dog catcher, Benny Stokes (who liked his eyes) is apparently forgetful of everything but that he is alive today.

Following the story published in The News that this arduous which was so very much like Mutt that it was necessary to see whether this dog bore the result of a dog fight in previous years for the owners to be certain, the dog catcher received many callers. Some of them drove up in large cars in order to take the dog with them, but were unwilling to pay the necessary charge fee as well as the license.

Included in the lot of visitors, was a man, Gurley Evans who has four children to be protected. As he repeated his visit a number of times he became more and more attached to the dog, which he wanted for his very own.

Although he found it impossible to pay for the dog, he offered Benny Stokes to work it out, by helping to drive the truck. Not having enough work—even for himself, Benny said this was impossible, but the problem was solved yesterday, when a woman unable to have the dog herself paid for the fine and cost of keeping the dog in order that Mr. Evans might claim him.

Now the dog which has been adopted by the workmen of the streets as well as the children, all insisting that he is Mutt in spite of the explanation that Mutt is on the farm for the summer, rides about in the dog catcher's sedan with his little boy, while Mr. Evans is in a town nearby searching for work.

A license and collar are to be purchased for the dog which has lost one home, but finds a new one with many friends already formed by a dog so like him in expression and manner that it would be impossible to tell which was which.

The Mercantile teams were in action last night as follows: The News Slugs lost to the Wampum team at Washington Field. The Spencers nosed out the Haneys team at Lehigh Field. The Bankers took one by forfeit from the Richmans, and the Firemen and Phalanx didn't play.

Monday night the Industrial teams go back to the wars with the following games on tap: Radiator Works vs. Lehigh Cement, Lehigh Field; Engineering Works vs. Shenango Tin, Washington Field; Lockey Machines vs. Telephones, Carnegie Field; Penn-Olio Electric vs. Cheviats at Radiator Field.

It looks like the Richmans after going so good in the first half will be forced to drop out of the second half. For two straight games now they have failed to get a run out for play.

The first-half title in the Mercantile league is not yet settled. The teams are asked to get these postponed games played off, and wind-up the first-half schedule.

Rosenbloom-Walker Matched For Bout

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, July 12—Maxie Rosenbloom, world's light heavyweight champion, and Mickey Walker, wearer of the middleweight crown, will meet in the Civic Auditorium in Atlantic City on August 30. According to tentative arrangements announced today, Jack Kearns, manager of Walker, said actual signing of contracts was all that remained to make the announcement official.

Kearns said Walker would receive 60 percent of the gate and Rosenbloom would be guaranteed $60,000. The Atlantic City arena seats 50,000.

Bids Wanted

Warm Air Heating and Ventilating Contract.

The School District of the Borough of New Wilmington, in Lawrence County, Pennsylvania, will receive sealed proposals for the material to be furnished and labor to be performed in the erection of a four room composite construction addition to the New Wilmington School Building, located in New Wilmington, covering the warm air heating and ventilating contract.

Plans and specifications therefor can be had on application to Clepper and Clepper, Registered Architect and Engineer, McDowell Bank Building, Sharon, Pa.

A deposit of $25.00 is required for set of drawings taken from the office, which will be returned on drawings are delivered back in good condition. Plans held and not signed will be charged blue-printing and type-writing expense.

Work to be completed within forty-two (42) days from date of signing contract.

Each proposal must be made on proper bidding blanks furnished by the district, in the amount of $100.00, accompanied by a certified check, in the sum of five hundred ($500.00) dollars, made payable to the School District of the Borough of New Wilmington, Pennsylvania, all enclosed in a sealed envelope.

Bids to the school district and satisfactory to the school board of said district, in the amount of said contract price shall be required from the contractor and paid for by him, to protect the owner against damage or loss of damage by delay in the completion of the contract, or any other cause, which may damage the owner, also an additional bond protecting labor and material, as required, as follows:

These bonds shall be purchased through local agents.

The contractor shall furnish evidence of compliance with Workmen's Compensation and Liability Law of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania now in force.

Bids will be received by the undersigned until 6:00 P. M., Eastern Standard Time, on Thursday, July 24, 1930, and on Friday, July 25, 1930, and on Saturday, July 26, 1930, at 12:00 P. M., Eastern Standard Time.

The bids will be opened publicly in a meeting of said School Board, at the Fire Department, on Vine Street, in said Borough, on the same day at 1:30 P. M.

The school district reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

Week End Market Session Shows Prices Generally Firm

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 12.—Strength in the food stocks and a number of speculative favorites featured a generally firm week-end session today. Dealings were extremely quiet with the absence of selling pressure influencing a resumption of constructive operations in a broad list of stocks. There were but 110,800 shares turned over in the first half hour of activity, indicating under a half million shares for the session.

Hershey Chocolate jumped almost 5 points to 98, while steady demand for Borden, Loose Wiles, National Dairy, National Biscuit, Corn Products, General Foods, and Gold Dust resulted in sharply higher quotations. Radio Corporation came to the fore of the industrial list, as reports that its leading sponsor had returned from vacation brought active buying. It advanced 1½ points to 38½, the highest price on the current recovery. U. S. Steel jumped 1½ to 159½; American Electric up 1½ to 121½; General Electric up 1½ to 69; and Westinghouse up 2½ to 138.

Utilities took part in the improvement with National Power and Light moving up 1½ to 40½; Electric Power and Light up 1½ to 68½; Consolidated Gas up 1½ to 108½; and Standard Gas up 1½ to 92½.

Man Injures Foot Working On Conduit

While working on the conduit being put in by the Bell Telephone Company on East Washington street this morning, an air compressor in some manner fell on the foot of Piez Williams, 318½ Mahoning avenue, injuring him so that he was taken to the hospital for treatment.

He will remain in the hospital a few days until the condition of his foot can be determined.

JOE ROSTOSKI GOES TO COUNTY HOME

Joe Rostoski, a frequent visitor at the city police department, was again in custody over night because of his activity along begging lines.

Known to the police as "Little Joe," his continued attendance at police court, especially as a result of his begging proclivities, has proven a nuisance, and it was decided this morning that he had better spend some of his time at the county home.

He was sentenced by the mayor to that institution and was taken there by officers of the city force.

Dr. Yeager Given New State Position

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 12.—Dr. John A. H. Keith, superintendent of public instruction, today announced the appointment of Dr. William A. Yeager as assistant director of the teacher bureau. Dr. Yeager, who for the last two years has been head of the Department of Education at the State Teachers' College, Kutztown, succeeds F. R. Morey, who has been elected principal of the Swathmore public schools.

C.M.T.C. Men Are Healthy Eaters

Youths In Military Training Camp Consume Huge Quantity Of Food Daily

Clothing Is Speedily Issued To Regiment After Arrival At Fort Washington

FORT WASHINGTON, Md., July 12.—The ancient military adage that an army moves on its stomach is an article of faith at Fort Washington, where 850 candidates of the Citizens Military Training Camp are fast learning the art of becoming a soldier.

At about 3:30 a. m. the Bakery Oven at the camp starts its daily dozen and produces about 3,000 cookies. 2,500 rolls for the day's consumption. The oven is a big one and can bake 300 loaves of bread in half an hour's time. This is fortunate as the men at the camp consume something like 700 loaves each day. Incidentally like ten inch pies (six cuts per from these appetizers) and cakes of various kinds are also produced in plenty.

Fresh meat, fresh vegetables and fresh fruits are a part of the regular daily ration. For this purpose a five ton Liberty Truck rolls out of the old fort before the citizen soldiers are awakened by the reveille bugle and heads for Washington, D. C. Here meat sufficient to feed 550 men serving at C. M. T. C. during the day has already been purchased by contract and after having passed the eagle-eyed inspection of two regular army officers who will accept nothing but the best, is loaded on the truck.

Vegetables and fruits are not purchased by contract, but in the open market at Washington, as produce of this kind must be fresh from the fields and orchards and go as direct to the consumers as possible. A purchasing officer remains on duty in Washington for this purpose and in the language of the Q. M. C., "he keeps up with the market." If tomatoes and cabbage, watermelons and oranges are available, and if are fresh the officer purchases them. He buys a goodly quantity as they are a hungry set of men at the C. M. T. C., a company of 210 men usually putting away four bushels of cabbages a day, four crates of tomatoes, sixteen watermelons and two hundred and ten oranges. Finally, after the five ton truck has been loaded with as much as it can carry it returns to Fort Washington, arriving there just as the men are rising and preparing for the day's work. They can do so in the knowledge that the best of food that the United States Government can buy awaits them on the mess tables.

No Mail To Be Delivered Where Dogs Are Menace

WHEELING, W. Va., July 12.—Postmaster Fred Cowl has issued an order stopping deliveries at all homes where dangerous dogs are permitted to run at large, following an attack by a dog on Harry Beatty, a mail carrier.

Beatty, the third mail carrier here to be a victim of a dog's rage in a week, was bitten on his legs and hands.

Rev. W. R. Somerfield To Attend Convention

Judge Pusey has rigged up a new way o' handlin' felons who'er brought before him. He first investigates the family history o' the felon, sometimes goin' as far back as the Tilden or Hendricks campaign, an' then he interviews him, askin' him many questions, among which are the followin':

Do you resort to aspirin?

Is your mother workin', an' why?

How long have you been out o' college?

Would you be willin' to earn a livin'?

Have you tried sellin' life insurance?

Are you willin' to go fifty-fifty in your own rehabilitation?

Judge Pusey has given much thought to criminology, an' has decided to go a little slower about sendin' offenders to prison till better accommodations are assured 'em.

"An' here's another thought," says Judge Pusey, "jobs ain't hangin' on bushes these days, an' ther is some excuse fer gittin' in trouble. Times are bound to pick up, an' if I kin jest induce a felon to amuse himself with Tom Thumb golf, or a mandolin, and deny himself some o' the luxuries that'er floatin' around till times git good I feel he'll git a job an' go straight. Then I put him back in the crowd. Take the case of Artie Purviance. Artie wanted a car which is natural. Who don't want a car? Who won't mortgage ever-thing, or any thing, to git a car? Artie had nothin' comin' in, an' nothin' to mortgage. He saw his folks makin' beer an' playin' bridge fer money, an' he seen some of our best citizens standin' in dark stairways talkin' to known hoodleggers. Everwhere he turned he saw law violators. Naturally it occurred to him that he himself might git in the game, so he held up a fillin' station an' shot the attendant to git money with which to buy a car. A most logical an' natural procedure. I've had Artie examined an' he's a perfectly normal boy, fond o' music an' clothes, an' he's amittin' to be a dentist some day. If the last few years had been normal years I'm convinced that Artie today would be well on his way toward bein' a very useful member o' society. He has promised me to give up the car idea till business takes a turn an' he kin buy one like a man.

Our time-worn system o' punishment don't curb crime. We send a youth to prison, an' his maw comes to us an' says he ain't satisfied an' wants out. We paroled him, an' he goes straightway an' shoots a few more fillin' station attendants. He's resentful, an' feels society owes him somethin', an' he'll be a collector as long as he's at large. I examined a felon lately who wuz normal ever way 'cept he had instability o' character in connection with firearms. He has a big family dependent on him, so I put him back in the crowd after he promised he'd try sellin' bonds. I had a fine lookin' forger before me last month. His heredity wuz perfect, his environmental influences o' the best, his mental age wuz o.k. an' his psychiatric traits wuz fine, so I felt that if this felon could git any kind o' breaks at all he'd make a useful citizen. I knew the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill would git over an' that money would improve by leaps an' bounds. I felt that this young felon would then find himself an' go straight, so I put him back in the crowd.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

This man Kipling musta known something about women at that. Rude it was you remember who penned the crack that the "female of the species is more deadly than the male." Kipling may have drawn his inspiration from that passage in the Bible which says that "hell hath no fury like a woman scorned."

Saw a wisp of a girl last night who probably doesn't know a right cross from a left jab, but customers she knows how to sock. And did. Seems as though friend husband was out in a car with some other woman when the wisp spied him.

Just in a little less time than it takes to recount it, the young lady had started what appeared to be a talking picture of the world war. She led with her foot to her opponent's stomach. Now the Marquis of Queensbury would call that foul, but the New York Boxing Commission says there isn't any such thing. So the blow was all right. Then a couple of straight rights to the mouth and by the end of the first round the lady looked as though somebody had hit her with a nice fresh syclope.

Police officers broke up the bout to save further punishment. And I've been wondering ever since what the wisp of a girl would have done had she been allowed to continue.

The office got adopted this morning. A more or less white poodle, breed indeterminate, size not so big, and with a great big heart for strangers walked into the office and in dog language declared he was going to stay awhile.

Perhaps it's somebody's pet. Over the right eye is a black patch, a natural one put on by Nature, which reaches down almost to his jaw bone. Has the affectionate habit of wanting to lick your face and hands, and is absolutely impartial in parceling out his affection. Check up on your dog and see if you have lost one. And if there's a reward, telephone this column.

This talk of Boulder Dam and those other dams in the southwest may mean something to the people around here if this dry weather keeps up. For the past week the weather has been drier than a Prohibition convention, with the corn and beans and tomatoes looking as though they were cactus plants.

7,000,000 ACRES GIVEN OVER TO RUBBER RAISING

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, July 12.—Approximately 7,000,000 acres of land throughout the world has been given to the cultivation of rubber, according to a survey just completed by E. G. Holt of the United States bureau of foreign and domestic commerce.

The enormous production of this universally used article is shown in the following "believe it or not" statements transmitted by the domestic commerce official in a report to the American Chemical society:

"If this entire acreage were stretched in an even band around the earth's surface at the equator, it would be nearly half a mile wide."

The total world production of rubber last year, 360,000 tons, if made into a single rubber ball, would be about 600 feet through the middle."

While consumption of rubber in the United States increased from about 370,000 tons in 1927 to 440,000 tons in 1928 and to 470,000 tons in 1929, the figure for the first half of this year will fall considerably lower than for the same last year, Holt predicted.

This is due, he said, to the surplus of rubber that the world is trying to adjust itself to, the overproduction brought on during the last year as an aftermath of having passed through a six-year period of enforced scarcity.

Whereas during the time of the shortage efforts were made to stabilize consumption and production by reducing the size of automobile tires, manufacturers are now demanding larger tires as more durable and in an endeavor to improve the surplus problem.

Plan To Arraign Alleged Escaped Young Prisoner

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, July 12.—George Gibson, alias Chas. R. Brillhart, 26 said by Federal authorities to be a fugitive from justice was to be arraigned today before the United States commissioner.

Gibson is alleged to have escaped from the Erie County jail March 14, 1929, while serving a four months term imposed by Federal Judge Nelms on McVicar for receiving and concealing 480 pint bottles of whiskey smuggled from Canada.

Illiterate Man Held For Forgery

(International News Service) SALINAS, Cal., July 12.—P. Costello, Filipino, held at the county jail, is the most baffling puzzle that has come to the attention of the sheriff's force in many months.

Costello can neither read nor write, yet, according to Deputy Sheriff Edward Abbott he has confessed to the forgery of a $5 check on P. Mupos, who swore to the complaint against him.

"If this keeps up," the deputy said, "it soon may be necessary to arrest blind men as Peeping Toms."

Nest Of Hornets Costs Man $25

(International News Service) PORTERVILLE, Cal., July 12.—One nest of hornets in a standpipe is easily worth $25 of anyone's money to get rid of, according to Riley Miner of Round Valley. Miner hadn't figured on spending the $25.

That was Judge J. R. Gould's idea when a state fire marshal chanced to pass by and caught Miner trying to put out a small grass fire which he had set to burn out the hornets in a standpipe and which fire was contrary to law.
